Sorry this was on another persons topic... but I soon realized I had come up with quite a few helpful hints and I thought this be the best way to share them with more people who may find them helpful... Goodluck... For I shall make my return soon... Helpful things you should do.....-when being buggy rushed early in the game and you can't buy a tech. or a hotwire... simply stand at the pt with a regular free unit with the c4 on.... continually place and refill your supply of timed c4's laying them all around the MCT.... if you time it right you can get about a 25 to 30 second window of timed c4's exploding near the MCT of a building that is likely to be rushed-another way to approach your attacks is by breaking off into small cells of 5-6 players... where your small groupings can allow you to withstand attacks from large forces... should there be a hotwire/tech. in your group as well as heavy weapons.... a small cell of units will attract major attention.... and can thus divide concentrations of enemy units on the feild and allow for an even greater effect of another cell of the main attacking force on the enemy base.... small cells of units can also allow for a greater strategic positioning... such as a small group of units on the hill on the map under as well as a group of units in the Tib. feild... this can allow for your team to surround and enclose all enemy units coming from a central location... causing them to divide their attention among 2-3 small groups of units rather than one large group...-when you find yourself about to die under the treads of a tank... do not just throw your c4 (timed) on the side of the enemy tank... for if they are an engi. or a tech/hotwire... they can get out and difuse it... the best way to place the c4 is by throwing it on top of the enemy tank-on hourglass staying at the top and using arties is not a good idea... yes you can be killed even If you are up there with engis. snipers and well placed timed c4's can take you out... camping on hour glass is very difficult and is best done when all units stay in front of the AGT or the Ob. and simply kill all rushing units-Don't underestimate the power of a flame thrower as it may not have good range but 3 flame throwers can quickly destroy an enemy building if all three are firing at the MCT with support from 1-2 riflemen and or shotgunners-Don't underestiamie the power of a shotgunner... if you face one of these units back up and don't confront them too close the shotgun is one of the most deadly weapons available... it is simply underated due to its extremely short range.... however I have personally done much damage to both units and vechicles with a seemingly worthless shotgunner.. the shotgun works best on buggies/humvee's, all types of units, and arties/MRL's...-Don't buy buggies on large maps where units have the ability to meet you at a central position... such is the case on the map Under... where buggies and humvee's alike can be taken out with a single riflemen, shotgunner, or flametrooper-When attacking an enemybase wait for the right opportunity to present itself before rushing.... do not rush in while the enemy base is bunkered with all 20 opposing players in the base... also avoid creeping ahead... as this will result in a bottle neck where any and all shots fired by enemy units will find a target.... keep back and spread your force out sparingly... such that units are not too far apart to result in an inability of concentration fire but yet are far enough apart such that opposing units have to aim-About to die? throw the timed c4 even if there is no close target.. you might get lucky and catch someone in the blast radius when it goes off-Can't see the stealth units?... get skins which allow you to see the glow from the stealth unit when it get's hit from frendly fire or enemy fire... a neon blue hue works best as this will allow you to see it in both lit and unlit spaces on maps-"The Great Blue Beam Rush" actually I think this is a good idea if youre an engi and you have no place to go but into an on coming tank.... simply put you repair gun on, and start firing it, so that the enemy units will allow you within range to repair them.... I don't mean to say that you should repair them... but should they be an arrogant player who thinks of you no more than a stupid newb... they will in all likelihood let you close enough to repair.... thats when you switch to any and all offensive weapons you have be they timed or remote c4's.... remembering to place the c4's on top of the tanks not on the sides....or even if you have a pistol you can use it and atleast get a few points even if it is 5 or 6 pts. its still worth it...-Don't use helicopters when the game is about to end and the enemy has no barracks/HON or has no Warfac./Airstrip... as this will result in rushing of the enemy base by helicopters whose drives now feel free to rush the base not fearing enemy units.... This is one of the dumbest things to do... the armor of all types of flying vehicles is very low and can be easily taken down by even on riflemen.... I have had many games lost due to newbs using helicopters and not strafing and moving around while shooting as well as thinking that they are invincible now that the enemy is weakened-Don't hold your fire if youre in a tank... firing at random can help you to decloak a stealth unit by shooting at walls and the ground in front of you ,should you be able to get them in the blast radius of the explosion you will be able to see the light refraction their stealth suit makes.. I have been able to get many kills just by shooting at seemingly empty spaces on maps-Lock your camera to the gun of vehicles... this will allow you to not only shoot in 360 degree circle around you but also can allow you to shoot at one thing and run over enemy units at the same time.... should you be a good driver... this has been very helpful to me not just the turret but the abiltiy to drive a tank well... giving me in all likelihood the best kill/death ratio in one game in all the world at 114:1-despite what people think having a few players who go off on their own is a good thing as this will net your team supprising results... not only can one unit get lots done but it will also take the attention away from the main fighting force.... as a result of my style of playing many renegade players have come to resent my style of playing... and yes I do admit I go overboard on yelling at people who may or may not be aware of what they are doing... and for that I am sorry.... but I highly doubt anyone can criticize my ability to give the team chances... do not put down or flame people who like to go off on their own.... many good things can come from people acting on their own... and need I remind all you snipers out there that you usually act on your own accordance and do not follow nor tell or get told by others what to do... and if so it is on a very rare occasion...Good Luck employing these tips [August 08, 2002, 23:18: Message edited by: C4kitty]

She could not be more right about the shotgun.Once on islands,I saw a Mobius trying to beacon the Ped. I got off a body shot which made him stop dropping the beacon,and turn his volt rifle on me.We tangled for a couple seconds,and he backed down the HON inner ramp,and I jumped and pulled off a GORGEOUS headshot! I cost that poor SOB 2000 creds with a free unit,and the GDI refinery was down!

She couldn't be more wrong concerning air units.I suggest that anyone who isn't a good pilot should go buy a tank and stay being the groundpounders they were born to be.If you're a groundpounder, you're one of those people who can't fly worth jack and thinks that the Transport Helicopter will survive anything -- including five snipers waiting outside your base. Leave the air units up to people like me. I take out any unit from high class snipers to low class snipers... Down to Stealth Tanks and Buggies, Humm-vees and Mammoths... It's easy. Snipers are no problem for me considering I know how to fly out of their field of vision.

I agree with most of your suggestions - but this one: "-Can't see the stealth units?... get skins which allow you to see the glow from the stealth unit when it get's hit from frendly fire or enemy fire... a neon blue hue works best as this will allow you to see it in both lit and unlit spaces on maps" I would consider this a cheat and a bannable offense. If you muck with the way stealths appear - why even have them? other than that - good points.

ACK had a personal opinion about how and when to use aircraft which did not agree with C4kitty's tip. Therefore, he typed out a message saying what he believed. Opinion vs. opinion, that's what the Tactics and Strategies forums are for. You either agree with their tactic and use it, or you don't agree and have your own strategy. These forums are not good enough for him? What the hell are you talking about? He's at least making good use out of them, stating his strategy and what he thinks. You are just starting an argument and further helping degrade these forums.

Ya know, the funny thing is?When I first read Kitty's first post 2 months ago, I thought, just like everyone else, geez, she is not a team player. But since then.....I have become more of a solo player in a lotta ways, I rarely repair other people's tank anymore unless there is a vech limit and i am just a hotwire, my reason: I am better in tank then 90\% ppl out there. Team work is only great when you actually have ppl that works as a team and are not n00bs. I was on city with 4 other s tanks, the whole game we are trying to rush but keep failing, partly due to good GDI D, but partly cuz these guys are just green, keep firing in field, completely decloak themselves and cost us the rush and the game.You wanna talk about the ultimate lone wolf? theman158 almost never says anything (good or bad) the entire game and he almost always have the top spot by being a sniper (a good one too) or whatever trick he pulls, and on 1 game, he was 1500 points ahead of the next guy on the list (which was a Nod), we won the game by like 500 points, I don't think it is a overstatement that theman158 is, well, the man! He pretty much single handly won that game for us. But I do know guys like him are very few.Good points Kitty.

if you consider it a cheat to change the stealth skins then why are they changable in the first place?... its not a cheat since anyone and everyone has the ability to download and or alter their own skins how they see fit.... does this then mean that the multitude of skins which make beacons both nuke and ion are cheats?? I guess biowave and a few others are huge cheats then huh?... fact is that if its in the game and isn't a bug that someone is exploiting then its not a cheat... it's fair and square due to the fact that anyone and everyone can get it... oh and to ack.. Mr. Ace Fighter these are tips and I could care less if you don't like my tips... because they are intended for people who need help... of which you are included... youre just too dumb to realize that you need this help

Did I say I use them??? No but I do make them... and as for your skill surpassing mine... well fine.... lie to yourself I know how you like to wrap yourself in a nice blanket of denial... just like the denial about your skins, mods, etc. so fine think what you want... Your the worlds best ACK and your such a goooooood beta tester. Everyone should look up to you and children should Idolize

you. And heck who cares if you did nothing but play beta and clans, not like that doesn't take skill on its own, heck if I beta tested like you for 3 months 5 days a week 8hours a day. I don't think I could be as good as you. And your eye sight is supreme, seeing such small well hidden things. So bravo ACK youre number one but heck don't hesitate to write back cuz I know you will, just because nothing is ever good enough for you. Mr. I need repairs I need repairs I need repairs I need repairs I need repairs.

I guess biowave and a few others are huge cheats then huh?... fact is that if its in the game and isn't a bug that someone is exploiting then its not a cheat... it's fair and square due to the fact that anyone and everyone can get it... oh and to ack.. Mr. Ace Fighter these are tips and I could care less if you don't like my tips... because they are intended for people who need help... of which you are included... youre just too dumb to realize that you need this help Why offer an easy way to do something?If you can change the rate of fire/damage/range - would you consider that cheating? "Just because you have the power to do something - doesnt mean you should" Yes - you can add skins in - but when you add them to give yourself an advantage over other players that are more skillfull than you - you are just cheating. Plain and simple The same idea goes hand and hand with the people that buy a game - with the "strategy" guide - complete with maps - secrets - etc....Why would you do this? Not to play the game - that's for sure...Often - the ones i find using crutches are usually real little kids - who need to make themselves "appear" better - in order to make up for their failings as a well-skilled gamer.Now - you can do whatever you want - but i will not play with people who cheat.Because i enjoy playing with honest - hard working gamers - not some little "kid" that needs attention from someone. I deal fairly with everyone - and expect the same in return. Most of your "tips" are valid - however - seeing that you regard the use of "SEE ME" skins as a valid tactic - i now consider you a skin cheater - and i call it as i see it. (pun) So i say "Good-day" to you .I expect not to play Renegade or any other game with you in the future... "Bah!" " not unless changing the fire rate or damage rate is available only to a few people no it would not be cheating.... but since skin modification is available to everyone I don't consider it cheating and if you don't use it and you get caught by someone who is don't complain... just like highly visible skins for tanks... I personally use real camoflauge for all my tanks/infantry/and misc. my stealth tanks are in acutality black.... but these are tips for people who can't see them for the life of them and if a bightly colored unit helps them to learn the by all means they should use it.... at some point in time they will start to enjoy playing the game when seeking units is not handed to them on a silver plater

Thanks for welcoming me back. And yes I would consider using an aimbot cheating, even though everyone has the ability to download it. Why? you ask, well for one thing aimbots are programs that are integrated or augmented into the game. Second its not part of the game, and wasn't meant to be tweaked. Thrid you complain about skins which are visible? Westwood gave a contest about making skins, all be it a false contest but one none the less. Westwood fully endorses the changing of skins. Does this then mean that people cheat when they turn their screens up brighter in order to see things which they normally would not in dark spaces? Or does this then mean that people with more expensive vid cards and sound cards now hav an advantage and therefor are not allowed to use them? Of course this doesn't mean their cheating, but their still getting an edge above their opponents. What about switching to third person during the game to see around corners? I'm chaning a view to my advantage is this then cheating? Does this skin declcloak the steath units? No it doesn't so anyone who can use a stealth tank or infantry should be fine. The fact is, is that youre upset because you've had to upgrade your skills while using a stealth unit. Many of my skins are true to life camo's and its extrememly hard to spot enemy infantry or vehicles but I don't complain. Am I justified in going up to the person who made this skin and telling him it made the game harder? No I'm not, but over time I've been able to improve skills on searching for and aiming at these units. So don't complain whether you like it or not the skins are here to stay. So you might as well just get used to it and learn how to deal with it.

Changing the steath skin to GLOW - like red/purple/pink neon - is cheating -always will be - no one said anything about the other camo skins --- i am more concerned with the straight out cheat of making the Steaths different than the standard white "stealth" look -this has nothing to do with 3rd person view/changing your gamma settings/brightness etc... and having a HIGH end system doesnt give you an advantage on seeing stuff - other than you may have better FPS/load times then the next person.it's making the stealths glow like neon - so you can pick them out better... (see - you can see the neon better?)that is not cool...and if you cant understand that - then i feel sorry for you and all the people that have to play with you..." Bah! " okay fine, what if i just pasted white skins over everything except the stealth glow?... now i can see all those hiding snipers and units which are dark colored in dark places... but hey i'm not cheating am i? heck since i haven't changed the stealth skin thats not cheating is it?... oh and lets not forget about the beacon... how about i make its glow a nice bright orange.. not cheating you say? you know there are much worse things than glowing stealth skins but you don't seem to care about those half as much as you care about the stealth..

that's because the entire purpose of the stealth is to get somewhere without being seen. if you take that away, it is completely useless. as i have said, there is nothing wrong with changing skins as long as they are not changed for the sole purpose of making them more visible.

I used to have the Bikini hotwire. Didn't make her any harder/easier to see. I agree that it is alright to use skins that don't allow the enemy to see certain units better. (Don't have the skin anymore, recently reinstalled Renegade)

Far as I am concerned it is not cheating, it is in the game, its not even a bug, modding is supported by westwood. Thus it is not cheating if you are within the bounds of the game, ie. not adding programs to help your aim or aim for you, letting you see through walls, giving you extra cash etc. If it were cheating then skins which make snipers easier to see is cheating, skins that make beacons easier to find, skins which make c4's(all) easier to see, and mods which tell you how much time there is left till a nuke or ion is cheating. This is due to the very fact that these skins make it easier to see the units/objects which were meant to be hidden/hard to see. So jumping all over a skin that makes a unit easy to see, when you hit it, isn't cheating since I have seen many skins which have not in the least bit made characters harder to see. The only example is biowaves skins which look like real camo. And actually hide units making them harder to see. And since I make and use skins which make units harder to see should I therefore be rewarded since I have to work harder to see these units? Probably not, so don't punish people who use skins to make the stealths easier to see and just find a way around it.

We shouldn't "have" to find a way around it. Modding is supported when it BENEFITS the community. Mods enhancing performance are not beneficial to anyone except the people who D/L them. And there is no way "around" a skin that decloaks a stealth unit.
