They need to invent second stage capitalization format for letters because I run into that problem all the time. Sorta like the third evolutionary form of a Pokemon.

We need to have a way to tell the difference between Caps lock caps and shift caps.

That's correct, he is a personal friend of Crimson, but that has nothing to do with his moderation capabilities.

Through my experiance, he's actually a pretty easy going guy. He doesn't take any crap off any trolls or players breaking rules/acting inappropriately. He supports moderators in their actions if they're right, if they're not, then he'll call them up on it in private which is absolutely correct.

If you're a normal player just wanting to have fun in the confines of the rules at n00bstories then you wont have any problems with him or probably any other staff members.

I hear that he misses you MUDKIPS. lolol.

What's that Azazel's got his mouth full of more shit from more ass kissing?

Also I think Jarhead may have accused me of cheating a time or two... nothing to serious, but sad to think of, seeing how I was never that good.

I remember once he kicked me for AFK less than 15 seconds into a new round... told me to "play or leave". I was like "Are you fucking serious?" I don't think he even realized I was a mod at that time.

I am pretty sure the only reason he is an admin there is because he knows Crimson... At least I have never heard of any other valuable input that would make him admin worthy. Please, correct me if I am wrong though, I would really love to hear a good reason.

That doesn't go for you Asstaster, your input toward anything related to NS is invalid and worthless.

Therefore, you haven't had a first hand experiance with him, thus you can't make an accurate judgement.

He wouldn't want to moderate/admin anywhere else for one reason alone, loyalty.

He certainly knows how to do his job properly and he'd be a great asset to any community.

I'm certainly not arsekissing, because that's something I wont do. I'm simply speaking my mind, everyone's allowed to have their own opinion after all.

Mudkips: Maybe if you didn't act like a troll so much, he wouldn't have been so hostile towards you? (If he was, anyways).

For players/users that haven't actually had a problem with Jarhead here's my advice to you: Don't believe everything you read about him, because most of it probably isn't even true. So unless you have actually had a "first hand experiance" with him, then it's pointless in saying "I've heard this" and "People have said that". shut up azazel, you're just sucking up. having been on the ns mod team yourself you should know better than most people what kind of a retard jarhead is he doesn't know a first thing about renegade cheats, and threatens people all the time simply because he gets headshotted when he stands still, he banned drastcdr, mike, and a ton of other players without a single shred of evidence whatsoever, and has threatened more players than i can recount, including members of his own mod staff at the time.

he's fucking horrible, and im sure that most people who dont play at ns do so because jarhead is an abusing fuckhead, who doesn't like losing, who doesn't like criticism, and who uses ren to vent his frustrations upon innocent players.

Like I said in my first post, I hardly ever play Renegade anymore and I don't even know who this guy is. But every single time I see his name mentioned, it's usually a bunch of people saying that he abuses his powers. If so many people think this way, why does he still have rights as a moderator? I know I'll never play in a server with him as a mod now since all of the things I heard about him are bad. It gives the server as a whole a bad reputation.

Well that's silly, but entirely your choice.

Several people have had a problem with him, yes. But not the majority. n00bstories still fills up regularly, so my question is this: Why do people play in the server if he's such a bully?

You should get a first-hand experience, rather than reading paragraphs about him.

I don't need a first hand account of someone to know that someone else doesn't like them. I would need a first hand account to form an opinion of the person on my own but that isn't the point I'm making.

MY opinion is irrelevant. It's the numerous negative opinions of others that is the issue here.

I, personally, don't know Jarhead and I don't even intend to, seeing as how I barely have any spare time and I've got my own server to care about. Besides that, if I would have time to meet him and get to know him and whatever, that wouldn't appeal to me at all, because I'm hearing too much bad stories about them. I know that stories may be blown out of proportion, I can't judge this, but I also know that every story about someone has a truth in it somewhere, and that at least a part of it is true, even if it's blown up to elephant size. That on its own, and seeing how there are more people who badmouth him than vice versa, doesn't make me want to spend time to get to know him.

I'd like to point out that people aren't wound up because you're supposedly telling the truth about Jarhead, and so on. People are fed up with you being in this thread and being on these forums, as you've got a past in the Renegade community, your presence is unwanted and definitely not appreciated, as you may understand. People are fed up with that, and the fact that you're defending the administrator of the server that you moderated WHILE cheating your ass off, but never admitting that. The irony in being a moderator and banning cheaters, while being a cheater yourself, makes you as a person highly unwanted, and your behaviour on top of that is so ridiculous that it's funny.

I never had a problem with him and I know the "current staff" don't either. He always acted professionally, gave assistance to moderators when they needed questions answering. Maybe you didn't get on well with him because you have a bad attitude?

No.

He was harrassing people and forcerg'ing everybody who headshotted him more than once. When I called him out on it, and most of the staff agreed, he got mad at me.

Azazel, honestly, what are you still doing in the ren community? There can't be much gain for you, other than being constantly reminded what kind of a brainless faggot you are.

Annoying you, it seems.

I personally think every time you're reminded of how well n00bstories is doing, it hits a nerve.

Jarhead probably wont even read this thread anyways.

lol, you're still in this whole feud thing, all of us have moved on man I really don't care about ns player counts

I was just having a fun game in ns with my mate when jarhead jumped on me, when i told him i didn't care about him, and was just playing ren, he gave me a 24hr kick, and when my mate complained him too.

he deleted all my appeal threads and then banned me

He is fucking retarded.

/Also, regarding Azazel and his cheating, I was on my sabbatical from Renegade during that period and couldn't give less of a shit

//4.0 is out, whatever he did in the past is irrelevant. He can't cheat anymore

///Being obsessive over some nerd cheating in a game is a waste of time

///Slashies

Hey AK, since you were away let me fill you in. You would have to have been on the forums to understand during that episode to see why people hate his guts now and bring it up over and over everytime he posts. It is nothing about him cheating but the way he acts (even now) as if it didn't happen and most importantly his refusal to apologize.

People don't have problems with him cheating or him being a cheater but of his absolutely dishonest attitude of pretending it didn't even happen. Here's a summary:

Azazel was on a massive crusade to burn those who he thought was cheating (while being a mod at NS). At the height of his hypocritical cheating, he created this thread demanding the forum ban of 0x90. In it, he argued persistently for the ban of cheaters not just in-game but also on respective gaming forums. By his campaign of lies, he successfully created an image of "angelic purity" around himself.

Then each and every one of us got the big bang shocker when Tiesto announced on July 17, 2010 how exactly Azazel was giving Ted Haggard stiff hard competition for the "Mr. Hypocrite of the Universe" award while he was on his crusade against cheaters. Everyone blasted him left and right and after getting over my initial shock and disappointment, was the first one to suggest we all forgive him after he does the decent thing and offers an apology.

Now here's the part that is totally relevant to why people keep bringing this up: Azazel disappeared! His last post before his fleeing was on July 16, 2010 (a day before we all heard from Tiesto of his cheating). But before that he gave us two more insightful lessons into his character in two seperate incidents:

He downright lied with the lamest excuse to his cheating instead of admitting it.

And a few days later in another incident tried to evade the ban and offered yet another pathetic excuse.

You have got to read these as we did as it happened to see the exact nature of such a abhorrent trainwreck of the standards of conduct he holds himself to. Tells a lot about him and yet I still did think one short apology would wipe all that away like I still do.

And that was the end of Azazel for one whole year. The guy who was on a anti-cheater crusade that regularly signed in and posted each day and was on the forums 24/7 vanished once everyone heard of his hypocrisy. It was a humiliating exit.

After nearly a year he returns on July 1 this year (no doubt he was reading up on the forums all along) to refute rumours that he had returned. And since then had used that thread to regain a foothold back on the forums to restart posting while we have yet to hear an apology. And since then had been posting around, chasing opportunities with supporting/allying himself with those he feels he need to rebuild his Renecredibility with most recently sticking up to Crimson and Jarhead (the same people he was backstabbing being a cheating mod in the first place). A child can understand the psychological game he is playing and the vast majority of Reneplayers who are honest by nature here at RF are offended by this behaviour of this frauding entity. It has nothing to do with triggerbot, patch 4.0, or like you said "being obsessive over some nerd cheating in a game" but the repugnant nature of his character that pisses the average honest person off each time he posts.

So it is not surprising in the least when people bring up something "old" whenever he posts because those things will remain new as long as he pretends it never happened like he is doing now. He says he is mature now but we have yet to hear an apology. That will go a long way to restore credibility. People aren't stupid; simply popping back in after a long self-inflicted exit, starting to post, sticking up for those he let down in the past and slowly trying to get back Renecredits and work on that unban request (which is sure to follow) seems downright criminal. So it's not surprising when people shit on him whenever he posts. A lot of folks will agree with all this.

[quote title=Aircraftkiller wrote on Sat, 17 September 2011 19:06]So because someone says he's bad, you just won't talk to him? That's kind of shitty to be honest with you. There are plenty of mis-characterizations in this community, you should take the time to talk to people that are being slandered. That way, if they really are as bad as everyone said they were, you'll know for sure./quote]

Let me put it differently:

- 1) I am in no way involved with NS and I don't intend to either because I've got my own servers (Jelly) to look after, so even if this thread wasn't around, I wouldn't even remotely care about this person at all.
 - 2) I am hearing shit from multiple people, not just one person. I know that if one person complains, it could very well be a biased story, but if I hear like 10+ people complain about Jarhead and his actions (All of which are separate stories); I know enough.

Well if anything you say Azazel is indeed true... then a lot has drastically changed...

When I was a mod at NS, long before your sorry ass came about, Jarhead didn't do shit but check for RG players on IRC and then !forcerg the person if they were not using it.

Face it, NS was the last community to swear by that piece of shit program... Yea I am sure it was useful before 0x90 broke though it like a cheap condom... but NS held on to it for way way too long after that.

Jarhead only ever seemed to abuse his powers, and then really only posted on the forums to tell people to deal with it.

I don't think I ever recall him catching anyone actually cheating. While the rest of the mods were cross checking IP's, gathering real evidence, and actually enforcing rules, he just got rid of people who killed him.

He played quite a bit in the server, but it was never really pleasant always bitching about something. He was there in the server and on the forums, but it was worthless to be honest.

I honestly wonder looking back now if he even knew how to use IRC other than the !rg commands.

I would think most of the old NS mods could honestly agree with the above. Not that any of them are trustworthy... especially against your word.

Edit: Also we don't call you an ass kisser/cock sucker because we are mad you are telling the truth... it is because we think you are a giant fucktard for thinking that defending all things NS will somehow redeem you of your prior stupidity.

We interrupt this thread for an important message.

NEWSFLASH: This just in, being a fucktard, does not make people forget about you already being a fucktard. Now back to your regular scheduled flaming.

you're forgetting the bit where he was harassing players with PMs if they killed him too often (and had RG), as well as fellow mods (ilonaus and me, and i think he might have PMd grant too) And he banned several people without a shred of evidence, most notably drasticdr and mike.

somehow i haven't seen any of this addressed. Is harassing people who barely ever talk, in PM, part of Jarhead's method of not taking shit from idiots? What about threatening mods?

Another comically idiotic thing he once did was accuse ilonaus in public chat once, on walls. Jarhead (who seriously IS a shit sniper) kept getting raped on the side, because he only had his head sticking out and it was piss easy to headshot him. When ilo got him like 5 times in a row, he started insulting him with stuff like "you're bullshit and everybody knows it" in F2. Best admin ever right?

the fact that he betrayed everyone that trusted him and slandered the community's name must also be irrelevant

Azazel wrote on Sat, 17 September 2011 09:27Crimson wrote on Fri, 16 September 2011 15:57Jarhead is not a personal friend of mine.

I thought he went to n00bparty - which is why I assumed he was a personal friend, it seems I was mistaken, my apologies.

No, The Pits had a get-together in LA hosted by Patonite one year in which like 8 of us showed up from The Pits community, and then the following year like 25-30 people showed up including Jarhead and his son I believe. I met him then and have not seen him since. The following year the gathering was canceled at the last minute due to family medical issues, then the year after that, I started hosting n00bparty... and this year was year 5 of that.

When someone gets banned from a server, any server, they come here or go on other forums and whine like little children. And somehow we're regarding these idiots opinions as worth ANYTHING?! Sounds pretty thick-skulled to me.

You guys have no idea how many hours he puts into playing and helping out with the site. If the price I have to pay for the hours of awesome and helpful work is couple of random tards talking shit... it's a price I'm willing to pay. They were bound to get pissed off one way or another, Jarhead just got to be the lucky one because, wait for it... he watches the server a fucking LOT of the time. He's retired and Renegade happens to be one of the many things he does for fun in his earned reward for his service and career.

Now I'm locking this thread because this man does NOT deserve to be slandered this way. Period.
