dont know if this has been already reported but i have been doing some comparison whit 3.44 and TT seams to give me worst FPS than previus scripts, lets say playing online 3.44 FPS=40/90, TT FPS=25/60

Are you comparing with the "worst" metric? Because that can -not- be compared to the values that stock shows.

You cannot really compare it like that, since there are many factors involved that are not equal in those screenshots. But maybe Saberhawk an give a better explanation of what could be the issue if the average FPS over a longer time is actually lower.

i know a vid would be more representative, but i thought that would be no need of it, i noted the diference wile playing for hours, and also making a test in controled essene in singleplayer were the TT allways offer lower fps than previus scripts, anyway i thought in came here and report it though it is not a big issue for the moment and i am sure the next update will came whit further improvements, so keep the good work and thanks a lot for this patch wich i think it will give ren more years of life.

much better is ren without any skin (exception crosshair modification) about fps, is ok, just disable VSync if you have a lot of fps drops.

Fixed

You could indeed try turning off VSync, though I'm not sure it changes anything.
TBH it seems I'm the only one not having difficulties with 4.0 so far 0o

EDIT: that statement is probably false but w/e; people without issues don't need to post about issues xD

You should also play in 16 bit instead of 32 to get a better FPS.

Do this in WWconfig.exe

Well duh, that means square root less calculations. No shit that it'll improve FPS.

What game is that? Is that Renegade? I don't know, I see Spongebob, is that a Spongebob cartoon? Ooh that truck, I've seen that it another game...

I'm being sarcastic. You have WAY to many skins. You probably have a weak ass computer too. Last time I tried adding skins, maybe between 5-7 skins, my PC and GFX card could not handle it. As a matter of fact, other objects in the game began to dissapear, like...tank shells. There's nothing like seeing an MLRS shoot at you with invisible ammo. However, that was on a much older machine. New machines I should think handle that well, which leads me to believe the problem lies with your hardware.

Delete all those skins then see what your FPS is.

Man, whatever happened to good 'ole fashioned plain Renegade.
