XCC is your best bet you can listen to the .wav's in your always.dat.

yea i know but i was wondering for an easy list because listening to X amount of wavs costs time and the list in level edit doesnt have a search function so maybe there is a list of translated presets out there in wich you can at least do a search else ill just do it the hard way

In the hour and a half since you posted this topic, you could easily have listened to all of the *.WAV files and cataloged them.

The only way it's gonna be easy if you upgrade to 4.0 and download the 4.0 mod tools, or listen to them in XCC.

i have 4.0

didnt see anything in the the mod tools that could help and i know that i could have listened to them all by now but i dont use sounds that much so it would be waste to put time into it

IF im bored i migh make a tool that makes it easy to find sounds

If you have the 4.0 tools you should be able to search for them.
