Hello Renegade Forumers. We regret to inform you that due to extreme circumstances, we had to reset the entire forum database over at the Multiplayer Forums. This means all accounts and posts have been lost.

If you had an account at the Multiplayer Forums, you should reregister. We promise this will hopefully not happen again, as security has been increased on the box and forums.

There were backups: The hackers got them too. So we had no choice but to do this, even when we got the most advanced security guys on the case.

We had database backups of a week or so old but everytime we did a clean install using any of these backups they still managed to infect the new files for some reason.
So we decided to start off 100% clean including the database.
Sucks but oh well.
