It's back and currently being hosted on MPF, almost all the tutorials from the only online source available is being made available once again.

Users can register and post up newer tutorials again on Renhelp with the ability to upload images/files if needed with our 128MB upload system.

Some new tutorials have been posted and will continue to be updated with newer methods, such tutorials being in video format, or updated to the latest methods..

Another note is we have registered the domain www.Renhelp.net that redirects you to the Renhelp subforum

*the forums is still being worked on so keep an eye peeled for more tutorials added daily

Nice try by no dice

I can't believe that these things are still in demand after all these years. I'll see what I can do.

Well looks like she is finally dead. The way back machine has the entire website and I have the SQL database but sadly all the images and files are gone.
