EA launched that to compete with Petroglyph's End of Nations Petroglyph has a bunch of ex-Westwood guys EA doesn't come up with any ideas on its own; it just poorly copies what everyone else is doing and compiles a microwaved bag of fertilizer

Quote:Mar 7, 2013 – OK, admittedly, End of Nations hasn't met its untimely end just yet. Trion has, however, wrested control of its development away from Petroglyph ... erm, it seems you're right

Ugh. EA continues to desecrate the corpse of the C&C franchise. Free to play or "pay to win" is one of the worst trends to come along in gaming in recent memory.

Free to play doesn't necessarily mean pay to win. See the above for a great example of this.

some nerd from modddb.com made false claims on the videos god modders are such losers. heres the gameplay videos: (removed by admin)

I'm in the closed alpha of C&C F2P also known as Generals 2. The game is very poorly made and very messed up. It wont be much better when it's released. The game copies starcraft 2 map layout wise as well as tech tree. the units however play like Tiberian Twilight where you spam a mass of units and steamroll people. There is no strategy. units are heavily overpowered. basic infantry can mow down tanks and other vehicles. i dont know if they are that stupid with balancing right now or they did that so it doesnt matter how much you tech up you can still defend yourself if not win. look for my username you will find the videos and youtube has alpha players posting videos too.

the closed alpha has:

horrible pathfinding

no balancing

glitches

poor animations

missing graphics

it has player vs enemy just as much as player vs player the ai is terrible

it copies starcraft in many ways it plays/looks/feels like a modification made by a fan i dont want to be too mean but im telling you the game is garbage dont get your hopes up. i have no desire to play it. there is nothing there to play. its junk. it was made for the sake of being made not because it should have been made. it is not AAA quality. it is not retail quality. THEY ARE LYING you shouldn't expect anything less from EA at this point; that's all they do, and they make no attempt to hide it the worst part is people keep buying into it time and time again the only plus side this time around is the game will be so shitty in the first place that it won't make any money using the free to play system - take that you franchise-destroying faggots for anyone interested in Star Wars and any games related to it, you should be pleased to know Disney has EA making their next games for the next few years RIP lol
