It depends on your skill and the situation. An Orca can hold off an army, if you are good, but I prefer Tanks.

if there are snipers out your best bet is to stick to the land (its hard to control the air with a bunch of snipers picking you apart.) without any snipers its easy to control the air. I played a game a few days ago I was playing on city_flying with a friend (as nod) where we had complete control of the sky the whole game. every GDI attack got torn apart before they could even catch a glimpse of our base.

Always go Sedan. But if you want to be serious, I think you should get an air unit, but only for a little while. Once the other side gets chewed up a bit, a lot of snipers will appear. If you're not gone by then, by-by 900 credits.

For City Flying what vehicle is better Land or Air. Sometimes it is better for air and sometimes its not. I need help deciding what to buy.
