What's up guys? It's been years since I was active on this website, and I just recently found my old Renegade disks. I would love to hop into a server and and play like I used to... but I'm not sure how to. I remember I had to install some sort of update? Perhaps an even better question would be... does anyone even play Renegade anymore? It was a great game. I wouldn't be surprised if people still do. I would assume most of the Renegade playing happens on that new modded iteration of Renegade - can't quite remember what it's called. Nonetheless- Thanks in advance.

Check the sticky under 'Renegade Client' named 'Installing Renegade'

Hey there and welcome back soldier.

To put it simple, its down to 3-4 active Servers now with around 150 Players in total, not dead yet

Oh, my poor feelings... you're a friendly one, Mr. Holmes.

Anyways, thanks for the info.

RenList is a quick and easy way to join games.

Alternatively you could create a desktop shortcut

Quote:

Go to the folder where you've installed renegade, and in the 'Renegade' sub-folder there will be an icon called 'game.exe'. Create a shortcut for it and place this on your desktop.

Right-click on your new shortcut and add the following to the end of the path contained in the 'target' dialogue box: +connect ServerIP:Port +netplayername "<PLAYERNAME>"

Just replace ServerIP:port with whatever the server's IP and port is.

Welcome back.

Many thanks, Lazy! It's been a good 6 years since I've attempted this, and of course it has changed. Such is the nature of technology though.

ACK isn't a douche or anything people do still play, but most servers favor Marathon now rather than AOW

untimed games vs. timed ones

winning a Marathon game gives closure; timed servers oftentimes feel like unfinished business like ending a race too soon and determining the furthest person the winner
