Yeah its the lag i get on that server though. Normally around 250 ms even though they say they have a 250 Mbit dark fibre connection i still lag more than other servers. There server is good though for the maps they have and i do normally play there when i'm bored of the normal maps so i may join you. Also there map pack are good so you don't have to go looking fo them.

i actually talked with the server host last night and we discussed alot of things to come for his server he's going to expand the website when he gets a chance(he's very busy)

Also he's connecting the new fiber system this coming week....it was suppose to be set to go this previous week but he has other things to straighten away on the system

Keep your eye on the ping you'll get coming within the next week or 2

BTW better make that 830-900 est
Games seem to be going the time limit today with the server full
