Ok I know this is nothing to do with Renegade but I saw a post on a homework question b4...

OK I suck at all things microsoft including excel...

I am supposed to do a what if statment...

I have the formula in d4 and I would like it to say out of stock if the value in d3 is 0 and say in stock if it is above 0....

Thank you for your healp.

This would go in you cell D4 (where you want the "in Stock" displayed.

```
=IF(D3>0,"In Stock","Out of Stock")

> means greater than, so if it is greater than 0 it will show "in stock" (,) if otherwise Show "out of stock"

The Comma means if not then

I have just done a 210 page IT project about Excel for A level if you have any queries then post here, Pm me or e-mail me at chett2001@hotmail.com.

Happy to help
