I have had renegade for along time now and the cds are getting a little skuffed up. I was wondering if there was a way to make back up copys or have a cd hack soft ware so i can decrease the use of the cds. Or is therer a way that i can get a new set of disk sent to me. I can hardly play ren sometimes im at the mercy of the disk working when they want and i really do not want to buy the disk again because i already bought them. i have tried to contact westwood.com and EA.com and i did not get a replay so i was wondering what i could do to solve this problem. ANY SUGGESTIONS

If you're serious about this, and not just trying to evade serials when copying etc...

You can make a virtual clone of the disk onto your hard disk using CloneCD. It acts as another drive letter, thinking that the CD is always in the drive.

yeah, he's serious, he's a friend of mine and it seems that renegade exits or closes on him. He asked me the same question so I directed him here for help.

Aprime, if you not going to provide assistance at this page just keep your sorry ass comments to yourself.

Oh and nice voice you have there, I know you must not have had to alter it much....... :rolleyes:
