Actually westwood should apologize to all the gamers for letting a game like generals use the "C&C" name. I had my copy 3 days took it back got my money and bought something else.

I'm sorry. We at Westwood do not accept informal apologies from disgruntled fans. You have effected our servers in a form which violates the ToS of Westwood Online. Prepare to get a notice of appeal in your mailbox in the next few days for court times.

Breaking the law is bad, children.

Why should Westwood apologize for Generals? They did not make Generals, EA did.

tammy101Ea made Generals true, but doesn't Ea own westwood now?

Westwood has always (or for a very long time) been apart of EA.

The publisher and developer of Generals are EA Studios and EA-Pacific
