Sorry that I keep asking for answers to these problems but this should hopefully be the last one I come across. When I export everything goes fine and it exports properly to a W3D file. I then view it in W3D viewer, no problems there, every texture appears. When I open it in commando I find that half of the textures don't appear and just get that Westwood logo where they should be. Do I have to specify a directory for level edit to look like in the W3D viewer?

Include the texture in your level dir

Put the textures in your mod folder's editor cache.
