I've read up on the real-life MRLS systems quite a bit. The Renegade units don't do them justice. A single MRLS Antipersonnel rocket can cover an area the size of a football field with infantry-shredding shrapnel, and the thing fires them in volleys of 12 with a reload time of less than 6 minutes. :twisted: Accuracy is measured in meters, as in "a few".

Ummmm that is an actual picture of a REAL MRLS. Its not from a game. I hope your kidding.

And yes the MRLS is powerful but issues of game balance must be taken into consideration. An uber powerful base bomber would leave nod at a slight disadvantage

Don't start this MRLS vs MLRS business again, we had a big discussion on this before. There real life name is MRLS (Mobile/Multiple Rocket Launcher System). MLRS doesn't make sense. Mobile/Multiple Launcher Rocket System doesn't exactly sound correct. It's an MRLS, nothing else, just an MRLS.
