Apparently:

ArUsH4nlln00bstories.com Under Attack
posted on: [Saturday - Apr 26, 2003 @ 4:51 PM EST] by: AircraftKiller

Just wanted to let everyone know what's going on with the N00bstories site.

First off, due to a packet flood, the site and its entire hosting domain are down. That means Protonic.com is down, and hundreds of other sites are down. Apparently, someone finds it funny to packet flood websites like that.

Second, the main network for C&C chatting is also under attack, by the same individual. RadiantX, found by irc.radiantx.net, has a good number of its servers down and unable to operate. If you cannot connect to the #planetcnc chat or the #n00bstories chat, then that's the reason why.

Hopefully this will end soon. With N00bstories.com being down, that also means that the Official Renegade Forums are down as well.

thats on CnC den

hopefully its all back 2 normal soon

The attack stopped long ago and everything was resolved. The problem is, my web host... this is the first time any of his clients have been attacked (which I find hard to believe, but whatever)... he's not exactly jumping to get Sprint to re-route my IP back to the site (they null-routed it to stop the attack from taking out my whole web host) -- I have moved the Renegade forums until I'm back online, and if you use the correct URL which is <http://www.renegadeforums.com> - then you will get forwarded to the right place where England has generously allowed me to host the forums.

I'll keep you all posted as to the status. I was supposed to be back Monday morning but I have no idea. I keep bugging my webhost, but if I bug him too much he may just boot me off, and I don't want that!

That was posted by Crimson at The Pits. It depends on her host.

I'm very close to a solution. I should have some news for you very shortly.

Crimson! I'm very close to a solution. I should have some news for you very shortly.

Sure will be nice to get back to the old n00bstories addresses...

So many n00bs to report.
