You see them ( ) running at you with their fearsome rays of blue death - shooting into your skin/vehicle ( :gdi: ) as you pepper live rounds into their pointing little heads.

Your health goes up - while theirs goes down.

Then they scream "Hacker/Cheater !!!! I died and you didn't!!!"

For the misinformed - your "repair gizmo" doesn't hurt the enemy.

but - if you want to heal me when i'm killing you -- more, *ahem* blue power for you....

(Oh - i was asked why i'm making posts on common stuff like this - well - i actually played some games (instead of modding) and was SHOCKED on how many new people were doing the same mistakes when the game first came out....)

:sneaky:

There is perhaps no curse worse in this game than those foolish enough to aid their enemy. No matter how often one may tell them to stop some new players simply feel the need to continue blasting away with the Gizmo.

True, some mean well either from lack of experience or trying to heal ACTUAL friendly units but there are still some that find it amusing to allow an APC, yes I said APC, kill a structure.

Their plague on this game is perhaps only surpassed by the dredged Island MRLS nOObs.

All those that have the skill wait for the 20th.

Long live the Republic.

I think the n00bs in mammys on under who stand at the Nod entrance and just get completed owned are worse. Of course that person is always accompanied by the engineer who keeps repairing it despite everyone on the team telling him not to.

I have to say the same thing as afdg195 on that one- about 5 meds and 2 mammys on the nod entrance, and they dont ove when ur stod behind them screaming ""MOVE OUT!!!"

I think thats what irritates me about lots of people- theyll buy a tank and move to attrack the enemy base, recieve one shot themselves, then blast backwards at full power wailing "I NEED REPAIRS". Sorry but they really annoy me. Just rush ffs!
