Why cant anyone ever use team work. The only organized thing I ever see is a damn flame rush. so this strategy section is totaly worthless. Ya know.

show me you can work together and i wont be so pissed off over this.

Thankyou,

Team work depends upon at least two things: the people being coordinated, and the coordinator(s). Sometimes it works, and sometimes it doesn't. Rest assured if I am playing I will do my best to pitch in...hang in there and keep playing until you find teammates who work for you.

Some servers are better than others. Otherwise, it's just a bunch of kids using their "Ctrl" and "Alt" functions repeatedly to piss everyone else off.

Most people just never listen, I was in hourglass map one time and we were rushing I told them to not all go the same direction some go left and others go right and they all just went right over the top of the hill and died!

Until they get some type of game block for people who havnt been playing for at least 5 months, then there will always be n00bs in most games to ruin it.

Well, I sometimes use teamwork, but in most cases with ppl from my country. U see. If you want to work in team you must communicate with them and this is much easier to talk in Polish for me. From the other side - working alone sometimes gives more points. :twisted:

Actully, the last couple of game's I've played have been awesome. Teamwork everywhere. There are ALWAYS engineer's repairing tanks, eachother, and buildings together. People will listen when I say "Attach the Base Defences" and "Move Out", and our huge row of tanks move into the Noddie base. I think it's just a matter of playing time. The more time you play with people in a server, the more they "get to know you", how you play. Then team work usually happens.

You nailed it on the head. Eventually it gets to the point where you don't even need chat or key commands, you just see and KNOW, and follow.
