this is a n00bish question, but i dont get the ladder system, unlike RA2 how u earn say 32 points for a game, then you have 32 points next to your name on ladder, i dont get what the like 60,000 points for #1 player each month means, is it like the team he played ins last 3 games scores together or something like that?

anyway, i really dont get it

So inform me .

Thank You.

well as far as i know at the begining of the month you stary off with 1000 ladder points and gain or loose points according to youre ingame rank and the no of player and game time.

the person with the highest no of ladder pionts is no 1 in the ladder and so on...

When you win a game, you gain "ladder points". This is added to your starting ladder points of 10,000. When you loose a game, you loose ladder points. Person who has the most ladder points is number 1 at the end of the month.

Sorry to repeat some stuff but you guys just didn't explain it right.

You know you could be the best damn player in renegade but only have 20 mins a day to play. Would rank show that up...nooooo. Only the point whores and people with 24 hour comp time get the high rank.
