Ok I was trying to join a server that ive been playing on for that last few wekks and evrythings been fine, In my opinon it's the best server on WOL for renegade. Anyways I tried joining today and I got to the screen where you click start to join, then all the sudden it says you have been kicked. Now I can't rejoin cuz it says im banned, is there anyway for me to get unbanned or what?

Were you were waiting at the start screen with all the current players list? I know from experience that if you sit there waiting to see a player leave, and the server is Blaze Regulated, you'll be kicked because you have an unfair advantage against others trying to join the same server. In simpler terms, any server with [BR] before the name, you can't sit and wait at the start screen for someone to leave just to get there faster than someone else.

And if it's not [BR] then you wont get kicked? I didn't know you could wait at that screen and wait for someone to leave. I thought the start button wouldn't light up because I couldn't coneect to the server or something.

Most of the time when the start button is not available for me when the server is changing maps and I cant see whos playing neways.

That isnt BR, its a feature in the FDS to stop people from using the relay to "hold" game channels.
