I want to play renegade against my brother on our LAN..... does this mean I have to buy another copy of renegade? Any way of getting rid of it asking me to put in the data cd?

And what about online play.....can we both play online with only one copy of the game?

Any help is greatly appreciated.

Since it requires the cd for play, you can only use it in one computer. So yes you have to have more than one copy (as in a legal copy).

Same thing for internet.

You could use Djlaptop's No-CD Crack for one computer. Remember, ONLY USE IT IF YOU HAVE THE LEGAL VERSION..

You DON'T have to have two copies to be able to play on two computers. The game will play with any cd. So just give your bro one cd and you keep the other one. And when the message comes up for him to enter the data cd, just click ok, or cancel.. all that message is for is to play the vedio.

juice Any way of getting rid of it asking me to put in the data cd?

Launch Renegade from the start menu instead of autorun.

the easiest way is to get a friend to copy your cd that's what id do otherwise use kazaa or similar to download a program that copies the cd to ur hard drive and runs it from there u might be able to find a free one from download.com or similar the answer is simple, just put the cd in and when the game is loaded and running , take it out and put it into the other computer and load the game on that. simple now i have helped you CAN ANYONE HELP ME ON MY TOPIC ON THIS FORUMS and if u cant find it i will tell you what it is:

my connection is always broken when i join an internet game!!! it says game pending and then it quits. i never had it before, it just started.

The game is playable off of BOTH CD's.No need to load and remove disk and no need for a No CD crack.
