Is it just me or has this forum move turned out to be very good. Everyone seems to be much happier than they were in the old forums. Does anyone else agree?

Yep, pleasent place to be.

Created by fans, for fans... The dedicated people of the community will all shelter here, and with very few spammers and all that was seen at the WS forums it makes it a much better place.

Plus we have our moderators, who will look after it all.

Somehow it feels like the power's been handed over to the people. Power to the people!

The best part about these new boards are the new moderators, the old ones from the old official boards never paid attention to us

The second part, everyone starts out at the same level and post count

I can tell you at least one reason we can be happy...

I think that one major reason that people are happier is because of the lift on many of the restrictions. Restrictions are just depressing, nobody likes them. The fewer there are the happier people get. It's really quite simple.

W00t! Go crimmy!

peace out,
