Hello, my name is Mark Skaggs and welcome to Command and Conquer: Renegade! We at EA have been carefully reading these message boards and have decided to make a final patch to the game. Included in this patch will be major bug fixes and 3 new maps. These maps will revolutionize the gaming community as you and I know it. One map, Volcano Flying, will support the new tank supplier feature. Also, there will be several balance issues addressed such as grenades doing more damage but having a shorter range. More to come!

Mark Vanderbilt Skaggs,
Renegade Production Manager

Yes, this is the one and only Mark Skaggs.

Of course I'd like to hope that it's real, but there is a large chance that it is not.

Although Mark Skaggs did have connections to Westwood, he was working on Generals at EAP during most of Renegade's development.

The mentioning of a "Tank Supplier" feature is what throws me off...I can see EA fixing bugs, and possibly even EA adding ramps and aircraft to already existing maps, but completely new features seem too far out to be implemented by a company which hasn't really looked at the game in such a long time...

However, we'll see, I guess.

Just some advice for future happenings in your life. Never base something off of how "official" it sounds. Many professional scammers as well as others involved with legal business can make "official" sounding statements that can hide the truth or scam you out of your possessions.

You didn't make it sound bad, I was just thinking that because of the fact that Renegade didn't sell well, and the company that created it no longer officially exists, which would usually be a killer for support.

Yeah, I'm not sure I'd want EA changing the balance of the game either.

In my opinion, the only changes that should be made to the game are bug fixes, like your pistol being loaded by default, Techs getting 6 mines when they start, netcode optimization, etc... any new features should be non-balance issues like mine counters.

Of course new maps could be released as well, even introducing new game modes like Deathmatch and a working CTF (without base destruction)...

I would of course support new maps, as long as they didn't have any drawbacks, such as major, unfixed bugs or something of the like.

For some reason, something that always stuck in my head from a long time ago was Devinoch telling the community of his idea for a map, and how he was going to try and have the map team make it and patch it in...

I still remember the premise of the map, too...C&C_Crater, it took place inside a Tiberium crater, with a Mutant Lab in the middle.

Strange, the things that I remember, eh?

There is a possibility that this could be a hoax, but it could be that EA has seen that people were truly pised that EA shut down Westwood, and that many people are still playing Renegade, a game that was launched nearly two years ago and STILL going strong.

If EA begins to patch Renegade again, they could regain the trust of the people they disappointed after the Westwood shutdown, therefore increasing sales of other games.

It is more than likely that EA WILL produce Tiberium Twilight, or probably IS producing it as we speak, since the Westwood community is in fact quite large. Large community equals great profits.

In layman terms, it's all about money. As I said before, this COULD be either a hoax, or an attempt to bring faith back to the Westwood community. If it is the latter, they are going to have to do some damn good patching to make up for the shutdown.

But hey, that's just my opinion!

I would just like the rankings to be fixed, or at least updated once a month. I know alot of you are anti-rankings, but imo they are fun to compare with friends to show who did what in a particular game. I know it doesnt show all it should but I still think they are fun, and adds competivness to games where you have a bunch of friends playing at once. I am not talking about point whoring, and being number one overall, I could care less what you are ranked, I am talking about kills/deaths, wins/loses, vehicals destroyed, and buildings. So the rankings are a big reason I still play this game, but since they have stopped working a couple weeks ago, my friends and I have also slowed way down on playing as much too. We were hoping they would have just reset this month but they didnt.

Another reason you can tell that this is a fake is because the author is doing everything he can think of to INDICATE that he is in fact an EA employee, where a real EA employee would do nothing of the sort.

Indication is a common problem for people who are just learning the craft of acting (or going on the radio). When you indicate, it comes off fake, and the bullshit meter goes up. It reminds everyone that you are, in fact, acting.

You all need to understand EAs perspective of game creations.

More Games=more money

Patch Games=Waste Of Money [spend money to patch / no money in return]

Tech Support=more costly

And whoever said that we will have to use Gay Spy...

What about WU? But I dont wanna talk about that here.

EA dosent seem to understand that by spending tons of money on patchs and tech support word gets around that there a really good company therefor the next game thay releas will most likely be more popular becuse people know that there a good compainy. but EA still seems to want less money right now then more money in the furture

i think that sounds about right

EA I HOPE YOU READ THAT!!!!!!!

What a ass-whip.

EA lies. They lie about "We will continue to support this game untill..", Forgot the rest.

hmm... this guy does include mark's middle name...

why doesn't someone email EA or call tech support or something and see what the real deal is?
