Hmmmm... it's so hard to choose now, but I'd definately have to say an Aircraftkiller map. Either the medical level or the flight deck DM map, or C&C_BasinTS for a C&C mode map.

Flight Deck isn't deathmatch. It's just C&C Mode without vehicles, you still have structures to destroy.

Ahh...I formatted and I lost the map, but I forget what it was called. It was the one Pinkbunny made.

No matter what anyone says, that has to be the most graphically-well done map.

Eh, not really. The graphics are pretty dull by today's standards, and he didn't do nearly enough to it.

Seriously, don't download every map. Most are a load of shit and look like they were made by someone who can only see squares.

Aircraftkiller Eh, not really. The graphics are pretty dull by today's standards, and he didn't do nearly enough to it.

The graphics were dull by today's standards only because Renegade's are.

It was compact, unlike many of the maps that have wide, boring stretches of land where the designer couldn't think of anything to fill the space.

The lighting was good, and the only problem I remember was the Tiberium fields being entirely too small, and not damaging infantry.

It has decent graphics, but nothing that Renegade is truly capable of using... that's my entire point, and by today's standards, I was talking about Renegade levels.
