Yep, he did it!

I'd sure as hell vote for him if I lived there. Better tune in to Leno tonight!

Probably go back in time and prevent the evil Bill Gates from creating the programs that are slowly taking over major political and military networks.

(Hey, with all this terminator referance, I thought I'd try to stay in the feel of it) im voting for him, only politician i can trust, anything that a movie star has done bad has shown up in the press/enquirer at one point, Arnold is a clean straight forward guy, and has a pretty damn good education to top it all off... plus the fact his wife is a Kennedy is pretty damn good to back up with.

Well, he will win, but I don't feel it will be the best.

He claims that he wants to get buisnesses back to get the tax base back up to fund all of these programs he wants to start.

But the main reason the buisnesses were leaving in the first place was because of taxes.
:rolleyes:

He will win, but from what I can tell, he has absolutely no idea what he will do when he gets elected.

Honestly, couldn't you guys just wait until the next election?

EDIT: I do hope that he will do some good, because the whole economy of California is pretty much dragging down the US at this point (and NY)

EDIT 2: And there is absolutely no comparison to Ronald Regan here. RR was heavily involved in politics for years. Arnie has just been for the last couple of years.

I'll vote for him if i lives in California. He's honest, sweet, kind and very smart. And he's very strong like me. Not only that I love his action movies (My favorite movie that I love watching him in is "Eraser") So i would vote for him.

Rumor has it is he's suppose to be doing one more action movie. It suppose to involve Arnold and Jackie Chan teaming up together in the movie. NOW THAT MOVIE I WOULD GO SEE. It will be alot of Martial Arts, explosives, and gun fights in that movie.

I believe that the only project Arnold is currently attached to is King Conan. It didn't even feature just him, it was more about his son, who is rumored to be very close to being cast as Dwayne Johnson (The Rock).

The script could probably easily be rewritten to exclude Arnold altogether.

Both Ronald Reagan and Arnold Schwarzenegger were both actors. Thus they can be compared.

Bearxor that is the ONLY comparison between the two.

Wait a second, in your one of your last posts you said that there were "absolutely no comparison" between the two. It's ok to admit you're wrong.

In addition, that isn't the only comparison. Both were actors, both ran for governor of California, and Arnold Schwarzenegger will become the governor of California, like Ronald Reagan did.

If the president of the most powerful entity ever to exist in this solar system can run the place from a Texas ranch, then I guess Arnold can run California from the set.

LoL. U know ur local politicians are in trouble when Lary FLint is running for office. I'm just a Canadian, but if I was an American living in California I would be voting Arnold all the way. Considering how bad things are for u guys, how much worst could it get if the Terminator was running ur state? I mean he is a incorruptable killing machine! He could kick a$$ no matter what happens, lol. Omg he even won the Mr.Universe competition in 1969! Thats my lucky number! 69! Now I would have to vote for him! Whos this tart that helped California get worst than it was? Whats his name, Greg Davis? Oh he has experience lol, he sure does. Experience in letting Enron rape their employess and investors while he just stood by and shrugged his shoulders. I love how he thinks he did nothing wrong when it was obvious way b4 the scandal broke out that he knew fairly well what was happening. Not that I am trying to pin the whole Enron scandal on him, but he had to know something being in the position that he was and considering the size of a company of that magnitude.

Enron is located in Houston, TX. I dont think theres much Gray Davis could have done about it.
What Enron basically did was sell electricity they didnt have.

Sorry my fault, I completely messed up on that. I'm sure that Davis had to deal with Enron in some way in the past because of the energy crisis problems that California was having a while back. Does that make any sense? Anyway if I had to choose between Davis and Arnold I'm not sure which would be better in the long run, but who knows. Arnold might have a fresh new approach to doing things and he has been underestimated before. On the other hand Davis seems to be quite an experienced politician. What was the driving force behind the recall campaign to begin with?

The whole thing behind the recall was that Davis completely sucks as a Governor. There's something like a 30+ billion deficit.
