Well, I just went to save my file and it just magically corrupted. :rolleyes: I had just finished my model and I'm extremely pissed off. That means my only latest copy is gone and the auto backup is useless and only has a copy that's a couple of days old.

I am now stuck with the choice of merging and importing from the W3D file I luckily made recently and the auto backup. There are a few parts from the auto backup I can use but when I merge them, they either seem awfully of scale or just in the wrong position.

I can't open a file because I have the annoying "blaster" thing, and have to use the patch that screws RenX up even more, so I can only merge.
