One must truthfully wonder... What the fuck?

No, really, wtf?

How can anyone come to that conclusion, unless there's a few things happening?

Either they're upset that I speak my mind on what I see, and try to "get back at him" by writing something utterly moronic like that... Or they're jealous of what I do and think poking at me in a manner such as that will actually have some effect on my state of well-being. Or they're just plain stupid.

I'm starting to lean towards the last part... Why?

Consider it, the amount of people here who do absolutely nothing. Seriously, when I say nothing, I mean nothing in the slightest to help this game continue to live. While you sit here, bitch and moan about people like myself and Sir Phoenixx speaking our minds freely, others like myself are actually doing things for this game. Just recently I released two multiplayer levels and I'm still working on a total conversion for this game. That would bring my total count of levels completed to about 32-40. I've lost count of the exact number but it does fall in that range.

So you take the time to complain about me because you don't like what I say, right? You want everyone to "give constructive criticism" instead of honestly telling you what something looks like? If I see a box and you call it a level, I'm going to call it shit, because IT IS SHIT. Go play some other games, start looking at how the levels are done, then pay attention to how levels are done in Renegade - then you try and tell me that your Uber Amazing Box isn't shit. $5 says you can't do it, unless you're a particularly good liar.

Through over a year of working with this game, I'm still seeing the same old pattern. Someone makes something, they show it off and expect everyone to kiss ass, someone like me tells them it looks bad, they raise a hissy fit and never return again. You know what, I'm almost tempted be even more harsh with my comments just to get rid of some of these newbies whom I know will never do anything for this game. Clean out the trash, in other words.

I don't think you people really understand, either, that this community is sick and tired of having a pathetic modification community who pats themselves on the back and giggles about making a couple of boxes with a GDI trim texture on it. Who's levels are played online? Sure as hell isn't anyone's but mine and SomeRhino's, along with some other exceptions, which are played rarely.

What's that telling you? Hmm, maybe it's saying none of you fucking goobers have actually done anything that people can enjoy?

Like Dante said, SHUT THE FUCK UP AND MODIFY THE GAME.

Take your pissy ass attitudes somewhere else. If you can't handle me, then get the fuck out and don't come back. Good riddance to bad newbies.

So fucking what if you have created maps, thats what you do and thats what ur best at , people have left the community because if you not giving them a chance, i have even shown other communitys just how badly this community is curruped by you.

Listen i may not be wonder man but i have supplied things to the community that ARE useful to the people who are going to start modding or need help, here are a list of some.

Created Nod/GDI CTF Pedestals = link unavaliabile
Created Nod/GDI Repairpads/Airpads =
<http://www.n00bstories.com/renforums/viewtopic.php?t=5432&highlight=>

Created So Far 4 Tutorials links below for proof:

Easy Terrain Genocide RenX (Gmax) = http://www.renhelp.co.uk/Tutorials/TUT_Displace

Using UVW Unwrap Genocide RenX (Gmax)
http://www.renhelp.co.uk//Tutorials/TUT_UVW2/UVW.zip

Mesh Smoothing Genocide RenX (Gmax) =
http://www.renhelp.co.uk/Tutorials/TUT_Meshsmooth

Basic Emitter Tutorial Genocide =
http://www.renhelp.co.uk/Tutorials/TUT_Emitter

And i will continue to make more without anyone stopping me , and these are not useless tutorials as i have had loads of people say thankyou for writing these.

Im also going out having a life, running a mod , trying to fit in time to make tutorials and help people in the community.

I will stay here, no one is pushing me away and this proves that i dont do anything.

Thankyou, Genocide!

I gotta agree with Ack on this one. I was one of those guys who made shit models, shit maps, and showed them off, only to be reminded of my shitty skills. I was mad that people didn't like my stuff, but that didn't stop me. I never left, and I stopped complaining.

Now that I have been modding for a few years, I really think I can make some kickass maps and models. Yes, my skins, and just about everything else sucks, but I have fun making them and palying with them. I never released any of my maps (3-4 of them) because I was so concentrated on self-improvement. I would get 60% through a map, but then I would throw it in the trash because I had learned so many new things, that map seemed terrible. So, I think you new modders should concentrate on improving yourselves, not on your reputation.

I started Modern Warfare to help the community, keep it going, and give players new material. When we finally complete the mod, I hope that the community will support us, and have fun playing it. That's my way of giving back to the community. Hey, it's not much, but at least it's something.

Ack's 32-40 maps have brought new members, and kept us alive. They are great to play, and he really has skill. Some may say that he can't stand to be beaten, but he is actually helping you. When he insults your stuff, that means it needs work. Period. If he accepts, or compliments your work, you know you have done a great job. If it weren't for him, we would be playing on giant teapots.

Quote:Great, you wrote some tutorials. Nothing else you've done gets used.

Do more.

Maps aren't the only way to give back to the community, Ack. Tutorials help a TON. It gets those "box newbies" to make some decent material, and with work, they can produce some pretty good stuff.

You are, as everyone knows, the best mapper around. Maybe you should write a tutorial on how you do it. An in-depth walkthrough, on how to create one of your maps. Just a thought.....

Quote:Can someone lock this please? It's not helping anyone, or the mod community.

No, we're getting a good point across here, you should pay attention.

So, listen to Ack, and give back to the community. That's my two cents.

Oh yeah, one more thing.

SHUT UP AND MOD.

#1, people don't try it, it will fail

#2, people don't try it, it won't be explored

#3, a community isn't modders, it is also players

#4, shut up and mod

you don't have to sit here and pour your lifeblood into this game to be supporting it, simply playing it is helping keep it alive, for if a new guy comes along, buys this game off of the shelf, if he goes on WOL and there are a whopping 4 servers with 8 people playing, but they have all new maps, whats the point?

Clean out the trash, in other words.

"Is very typical of you....how do you know they won't do anything for this game?

Ive tried to steer away from your verbal diarrhea posts about the community....but this one takes the cake.

Let people mod the f'kn game any way they want.....they want to leave after 1 map or 1 model or 1 mod...so be it.

Pay attention to what? I've done plenty for the community already, thanks.

I've been looking at some other game modding communities, and when people post pictures of work-in-progress maps or models, they don't receive comments like "that's shit", they get things like "maybe if you extended this bit" or "maybe you could retexture that part" etc. And those people then go off and learn something. They're not posting so everyone can "kiss their ass", they're generally after advice on how they could possibly improve whatever they're working on. Jumping all over someone and utterly lambasting their work benefits no-one.

C&C Map Bunkers
C&C Map Glacier
C&C Map Gobi
C&C Map Metro
C&C Map Mines
C&C Map Sand
C&C Map Snow

Then there's two other levels, Land and Noddingham.

You're oblivious to the amount of work it actually takes to finish any level. It's simple to sit there and chatter off about "Oh no, he didn't do anything, they were just given to him."

Okay hotshot, if they're so simple and easy to do, explain why it's taken me about eight months to get almost all of them finished? No conspiracy theories of "u new i wud pst dis so u porposefully mad it so u t00k longr!!!!11111!" please.

The ability to comprehend the tutorial depends on your intelligence level and how fluent you are with the English language. As in your case, difficulty is to be expected, considering you're almost illiterate and ignorant to most forms of written expression.

Nothing is original, either. Everything created comes from an inspiration of something else. How is it original at all to sit there and create levels for a game that already exists? :rolleyes:

Honestly, do you even think before you post?

and then again he never just says "it looks like shit" he always says WHAT he thinks look bad so its a bit like constructive criticism (sorry im danish and i dunno how to spell it) in a maybe "bizarre" way?

why must this community alway agree about small things? Other communitys are totally different, everybody helps everybody. When something is really bad the say you can do this better and not "that looks like shit". Say what is bad and what can be inproved and how you would do it. Another thing is that people alway would become the best. They see every Mod as their enemy. Why many only whant to have some fun by making mods for other and see the work they done is played by other Gamer.

CNCWarpathSo fucking what if you have created maps, thats what you do and thats what ur best at , people have left the community because if you not giving them a chance, i have even shown other communitys just how badly this community is currupted by you.

I've said it before, and I'll say it again: If these people stop what they're doing and leave the community because of what just one person has said or done, they shouldn't have started in the first place.

Most of you children still don't get it yet. Giving nothing but positive comments and positive criticism about a model, skin or map no matter the quality does not in any way help the author, or the community. If a person got nothing but positive comments and criticism for their work, no matter the quality, they will not try to do better, or learn more, because according to almost everyone, their work is perfect and the best.

Would you try to better your skills and learn more if everyone told you that you're first model is "Awesome!", "Great!", "Neat!"? No, there would be no need. Why try to get better when everyone supposedly thinks your model is the next best thing since sliced bread? If you were to get some negative criticism, you'd try to fix the problems and do better so you don't get any, or at least not as much, negative criticism. But most of you who have little experience in the real world wouldn't understand why negative criticism is needed for people to better themselves, and why lying by giving false positive criticism is bad.

Contrary to popular belief, but giving just negative criticism does help. If people told you that your model sucked, what would you do? Try to make it with more quality and detail, so that you don't get any more negative criticism. But, negative criticism coupled with actual advice on how to get better isn't excepted any more than just plain negative criticism.

If you can't take negative criticism, than you don't belong here, or anywhere else in the real world.

I am forced to disagree with you. True, if everyone says it's awesome, the model might not get better, but the modeler might. If you don't like it say why. These people try as hard as you. They might not be half as good as yours, true, but you probably all have made crappy maps and models. You get better as you do it. These people could get better and could make awesome maps and models. It's not like any of you just downloaded the map editor and instantly knew everything. People have helped you, you should help others as well. Maybe you impart some of your wisdom to these new people, instead of just saying it sucks. It's gotta suck for a reason. Tell them so they can improve on the design.

If they keep sucking, well then you can flame their asses.

Can this freaking flame war end please?! ACK you say you keep the community alive by making maps and shit... thats fine. That you have an opinion is also great... you have right to have one. But can you understand that ppl who just 'arnt as good as you' in map making, do try there best? For them its great to have finally made a map without someone's help, but they feel low because you always point out the bad things and never the good things.

-I miss this, thats not right... that sucks.....

Never: Hey that looks nice, for a newbie map maker you did a nice job.

You understand what I try to say? Your a nice guy and all but you need to judge someones maps on his level of skill not on the map its self... if we would do that with you... you would suck as well.

One with true wisdom is one who knows,
True victory comes not from butchering foes.
The greatest battles are never fought in any lands,
Nor are their weapons touched by mortal hands.

True, absolute victory must come from within,
Ceasing the conflict beforehand, avoiding the sin.
The combat is harsh, but victor rewarded,
Nothing but triumph can be afforded.

If only your limited intellect could actually attack me, it would be "ACK bashing." It's more like "Assrammer1x77 and people like him make fools of themselves over and over without any real assistance from anyone."

Subject: "We all know you hate something better than yours" lol, in 10 hours this thread has accumulated 90 post. Before I bother reading it, does it make a valid point whatever that may be?

EDIT:

Ok I read the first 10 post or so, and am just going to give my opinion on them. About the whole Aircraftkiller thing.....with newbies who come to show what they did in 5min just to get a "joy joy" feeling of that accomplishment, and then ACK says it's shit. He is just using a different approach to improving these people. There is the attitude you get in 1st grade where the teacher pushes and pushes you to accomplish the task set before you. Well, with ACK, he uses the approach that you would see in everyday life of job employment. Whenever you do a shitty job at whatever you are working at or with, and you were not giving it your all. Do you really expect your boss to say 'Hmm, yeah I can see some good points in your work (really doesn't see anything just trying to console the person), but next time I expect to have something a little better next week. Ok? You are excused'....you might see that in some places, but you usually do not nor do you see this that often on these forums. Rather your boss would say something along the lines of truthfully telling you that what you did was shit and you didn't take your time nor tried to your best. That if you keep producing work of such a low caliber you will be of know use to that particular company, and will be fired/let go for someone who can provide better material for what they are assigned to do or what they promis to do/accomplish. As you can see ACK and others put themselves at the top of the list for a truthfull inspection on what a new person or old person who has decided to try something out, and that their speculations represent the majority of the communities thoughts and ideas it is just that most of us are to lazy to waste our energy reprimanding someones mistakes when they themselves should be capable of recognizing those faults and automatically fix them before they present their work for public criti

Bottom line, there are many different ways to 'weed' people out of the modding community who just simply do not belong there, and ACK's way may not be the 'cleanist', but it is a quick short way of disposing that person before they present anything else that is a waste of theirs as well as the communities time. That they should just stick to the sideline and be the towel boy for all the other renoun modders in the field.

Side note: Do any of you remember last May/July? When ACK first started doing maps? He was bashed 10x more than the usuall newbie we see today. Those people were harsh, constantly bitching him out say his maps suck (I think one of the earliest I saw such verbal bashing was conyard DM, not totally sure), and after all the bull he went through he did not quit, did not give up so easily as the people do now days. He held his ground and pushed back the comments that were thrown at him, and kept producing maps despite the publics opinion. Look how he turned out.....if the new guys can keep a stiff lip after being bashed (as well as being basicly told the problems sited in whatever they are doing) they will 90% of the time come back with atleast remotely better material and at the same time become hardened enough to take these insults in a jokingly/serious/straigh-to-the-point manner. When you will be able to absord the comments the most experianced modders of this community has to offer you are only one step closer to producing material that we can expect and rely on. After synthesising what has been said, and processed a new plan for your material all you have to do is perform to the ability that atleast match the standards this community has as of now. Then you yourself will be a little more respected for what you do, and slowly rise to the top just as others have done.....Good luck to those, and may you aspire!

The thing is, most people like Assrammer1x77 over there think I was just handed everything in this community... Sure I was! Everyone automatically loved what I did. They ALL praised me, day and night, and sent me gifts of monetary compensation for the amount of time I put into my work for their enjoyment. None of them disliked Glacier Flying, and every person had something good to say!

Now back to the real world, what Forsaken said is pretty much exactly what happened. Too bad most people weren't around to see it.

Yeah, Renegade was my first online game I started to play, and when I came to the Renegade forums (first gameing forums as well) that is what I mainly witnessed in the modding section.....or let's say stuck out the most.....people flocked to ACK's threads when he released his first works, and when one person was brave enough to bash him so was the next person and the next. Once 10 of the bravest pain in the ass critics beat down ACK with "constructive insults" (ha) it seemed the stragglers came through and saw that ACK was being bashed yet again, and that it seemed like a forum game to bash the ACK, so they joined in throwing their rain of pebble sized meaningless insults. That were most of the time silenced after a post from ACK, but knew that ACK would 'get his own' when the top 'dogs' came back to post in their defense.....It is hazy, but that is along the lines of what I remember

The funny thing is that they're all gone, but I'm still here. Such irony...

They aren't the last to follow that road. Many here have done the same thing, and they're gone. I know of a few people who will head down that path, and quickly. They always seem to fade away without anyone really remembering, nor caring.

Everyones Different...Most people are kind to others and are willing to help,some are not as kind.

I Dont mind helping newcomers...Renegade Isn't as enjoyable as it once was...nothing lasts forever...with a few decent maps,we extend the life of Renegade.

Someone wants to show off there new model of a gun or whatever...expect to be thrown some negative comments...theres 2 ways to Learn...on your own or by others...ACK chooses to let everyone learn on there own.....I believe a good teacher will help people learn quicker and more efficiently.

Who really cares what others do in there spare time...I dont care if someone produces 1000 crappy maps and posts them all up for comments...if they ask for help I'll let em now whats wrong if I have the time for them.

I dont care that ACK bashes them either....tell them all of there work sucks,Flame back and forth all day,Its not my forums.

Tell me how bad my maps suck...It doesnt bother me.
I asked for Help...didnt recieve any but it couldnt hurt to ask.

Titan1x77You'd think you'd be happy to share the knowledge or WW models with other's to help make Maps for the game we all love.

Due to the fact that Westwood was never a company to graciously hand out the most precious aspects of their games, I'm sure part of the deal which allowed ACK to obtain the models in the first place involved him not just distributing them to anyone who wants them.

And even had it not, why would he want to? As far as maps go, anyway.

They weren't finished, that's why they weren't in the game from the get-go. A map-maker wouldn't just release a half-finished map when he had plans of completing it in the future.

If you want to learn from the models, it's not too hard to simply wait for ACK to release them completed, then open them up and figure out whatever you wanted to in the first place.

Yeah, I do not remember many from the past.....once looked back upon this seems like a rags to riches tale.....the supposedly proclaimed 'weak' by a certain group of people that turns out in the end that the so called weak prevails to be the strongest by out reaching the others goals and wits. The only reason I could think of to mod this game would be to entertain good friends and hardcore players of the Renegade....For sticking together when others left, those who forsaked this game just because of it's lack of support and that they wouldn't get off their ass and give mods,maps, spirit. Because in their minds they saw a future of a dead rotted game which was reflected on themselves from their lack of participation in saving the game from a quick death....that they thought just because they didn't do shit others in the community would not do any either....as you can see most of those people are gone now, leaving only the few who want this game to go on further than it is supposed to, and have a thriving community of friends. Sure we still have our difference of opinions on how things in this community should now be, but hey, it's good to have different opinions with such a large group of people so it is not one sided. Yeah, ACK and others maybe take jabs of criticism that may seem abrupt and harsh. Just keep your head up, don't let the insults hurt you, they are criticizing your work not you (unless you be an ass back for what they say creating controversy, old time enemies...ect), and just means you have to do a better job next time if you want to successfully turn their heads.

That was supposed to stop at the rags to riches part.....

Oh well indeed ACK.

Stop trying to play off on pity, as if you're the victim or something. You're far from the victim, more like the instigator.

None of my levels except City Flying Exp were pre-existing, and even then it isn't mine. I don't claim it as mine. I only say I modified the level, because that's all I did.

I wasn't "blessed with contacts," I had to work hard to be noticed by anyone. That includes the members of the development team.

See that word? See where it says "seems?" What does "seems" mean in that context? It means you're using your viewpoint and are trying to force that viewpoint on others by telling everyone that I'm ungrateful in your eyes, therefore that means everyone should view me in that sense. You don't know what happened. You were not there for any of the meetings I had with the team members and you had nothing to do with the development of the game.

No, I'm not giving you anything I have. It's none of your fucking business, to put it in the best possible terms. Just because you want something doesn't mean that you deserve it. Who am I to say that? Oh, I don't know, maybe I'm the person who holds the rights on the things I possess, therefore - I make the judgements on how they are distributed.

No one but me. I know you don't like it. I, frankly, do not care. As you said, I paid my dues. You did not.

Havoc if you made something, and you were really proud of it, would you want others making cheap, crappy rip offs of it, that then could be released to the public?

If I made something that I thought was impressive, released it for public modification, then found the same map with crappy new features and stuff, it would be a disappointment.

I wouldn't give out my stuff to a lot of people- I am no modeller, but I can speak for others when I see a lot of, not lame, but poor quality work. I wouldn't want my work getting into the hands of these people when they are going to inflict this kinda thing on my own work.

Perhaps releasing it to a few well known, experienced modellers maybe, but not first time amateurs :S

Why do I say no? Because it's my choice to say no. It isn't your choice. Stop raising a hissy-fucking-fit over it because you don't get something that you want from me. It isn't my duty or job to give you anything I have. I receive no compensation from it. I get nothing at all. I do not give my hard work out to others when I will receive nothing at all. Once again, I tell you to shut the fuck up and get over it.

Why not keep the levels to myself? Gee, where have you been? There's been only one level I've released to the public and that was the River Raid source file. Nothing else has been given out because it's not my job to let you get off free without having to do any real work. Why should I have to do things for you, so only you benefit?

Get off the floor, you're kicking and screaming a bit too much... Have some dignity, dude.

...You don't have to make something to control the rights of it. Electronic Arts didn't create the Westwood 3D engine, yet they own the copyrights on it. Why? Because Greg Hjelstrom signed over the rights for it when he left Westwood Studios, that's why.

When Westwood Studios transferred their assets to me, I received the copyrights to the assets along with the assets themselves.

Why keep what I have for myself and not release it for others? Because I'm not a god damned moron, I know exactly what you want to do. You're trying to get the stuff out of me, considering you already hate me, then you can dispose of me later on because you think I have nothing else to give you. If I don't give you anything at all, you sit here and whine about it while I keep working on other creations of mine. There are a few reasons, one of which I named, and another which would be the copyrights. I cannot go around giving away what I own to people unless I feel like losing the ability to protect my property. I'm not going to give you my car and then ask for it back later on, you know. I'd never get it back.

You don't know my philosophy on life or what my purpose in life is. Please shut the fuck up, remove your cranium from your rectal sphincter and clean your face off of the brown shit. Thank Im sure thats not what Westwood's purpose for those model's were. Why do people realse source models? For people to LEARN from...Not for people for peple to hold forthemselves.

If companys held the SDK and modkits for games to themselves do you think he game would be more popular?

I don't want this to continue every week a ack flame topic starts. Instead of saying "You n00b" or "You idiot" you oclud help people with there mods/models/map instead of saying its shit. That is driving people away.

You jsut made your first model that you spent hours on, you register up on the forums and post it and it get told its shit and basiclly quit modding(or the game) the community loses a potential contributor or mods.

I respect you as a modder but bot as a person, you pretty much cheated your way to the top and you push everyone else who wants to be DOWN.

And you start a flame war over silly thign s such as a simple typo or gramer error or someone who says MOD or NOD.

xSeth2k2xIm sure thats not what Westwood's purpose for those model's were. Why do people realse source models? For people to LEARN from...Not for people for peple to hold forthemselves. No. You don't learn anything from something that's already complete. You can't learn how C works by looking at the Quake 3 source code, you also can't learn how to skin by simply looking at someone's skin.

Companies release the source of their games when they know they will not make any profit or gain anything from keeping it to themselves. id Software released the source code to Doom, and all of their current Quake games except for Quake 3 for free to the public. Why? Because it no longer benefited them, the engines were obsolete and there was no point in keeping the source to themselves.

When you create a model and skin it, and release it to the public for others to use, you're giving it away because it doesn't benefit you if you keep it for yourself, and it would actually benefit you more if you were to give it away.

Keeping the sources for the maps would benefit ACK alot more than if he were to just give it away.

xSeth2k2xIf companys held the SDK and modkits for games to themselves do you think he game would be more popular?

We're not talking about SDKs or MDKs, we're talking about the actual source for the game, the base of the game, what they used to compile and put together to form the game.

xSeth2k2xYou jsut made your first model that you spent hours on, you register up on the forums and post it and it get told its shit and basiclly quit modding(or the game) the community loses a potential contributor or mods.

If you can't take a single comment from one person, and quit because of it, you shouldn't be here in the first place.

xSeth2k2xAnd you start a flame war over silly thign s such as a simple typo or gramer error or somone who says MOD or NOD.

Correcting someone's grammar doesn't in any way make a flame war. It's the reply to his correction that starts the flaming. Person A corrects Person B's spelling: "Remember, it's 'things", not "thign s", and Person B replies with: "hey dumass i dun't hav good englisch stupidt, blah blah blah.". The flaming started with Person B's reply, not Person A's corrections.

That's also not how ACK (Or anyone else.) replies to a post with bad grammar/spelling. If you've paid any attention at all, the corrections almost always take the form of: "Remember, it's 'misspelled word', not 'mispelled wurd'. "

If it were Westwood's purpose for the models to be used by everyone, they would have released them to everyone... It's as simple as that. Instead, they decided to give them to ACK who they knew would not only use them, but make them better.

Sir PhoenixIf you can't take a single comment from one person, and quit because of it, you shouldn't be here in the first place.

Finally! Amen!!!

Quote:Why keep what I have for myself and not release it for others? Because I'm not a god damned moron, I know exactly what you want to do. You're trying to get the stuff out of me, considering you already hate me, then you can dispose of me later on because you think I have nothing else to give you. If I don't give you anything at all, you sit here and whine about it while I keep working on other creations of mine. There are a few reasons, one of which I named, and another which would be the copyrights. I cannot go around giving away what I own to people unless I feel like losing the ability to protect my property. I'm not going to give you my car and then ask for it back later on, you know. I'd never get it back.

Dude I dont know a thing about modding OR map making... im just telling you becouse you keep the community from growing and want all respect to yourself.

And a car is something WAY diffrent then map or mod models... where the hell did you get the idea of a car from????

But anyway... what your basicly saying is that you want to hold the growing of the community back because it is YOUR work? Thats not called copyrights... thats called selfish, there is no other way around it.

Just because I bought this computer im working on now doesnt mean my friends cant use it, if they need to look for something on the net... be my geust.

Lets take for example my drawings (something Im realy good at), if someone asks me: 'Can we use those drawings for the school children to color?' why would I have any problems with it? As long as you can make sure you dont gonna take credit for it.

So when you do give someone your models, you could just allow him to use them as long as he refers your name in the review or the map/mod name.

And you are right about that motto thing I wrote at the bottom of the post, I got carried away and my appologies for that.

Havoc_eliteDude I dont know a thing about modding OR map making... im just telling you because you keep the community from growing and want all respect to yourself.

I don't know how to take this. It seems like you're saying that my work is so awesome and excellent, that you need to have it in order to progress, or else you won't be able to learn. News flash - you learn through experimentation. You don't learn by having people hand everything to you.

IT'S THE PRINCIPLE OF IT.

You hold yourselves back with your excuses for everything. It's always my fault that you can't do something. It's always my fault that you leave. It's always my fault that you fail.

NEWS FLASH - IT'S YOUR FAULT THAT YOU FAIL, YOUR FAULT THAT YOU SUCK, YOUR FAULT THAT YOU DON'T KNOW WHAT YOU'RE DOING, AND YOUR FAULT THAT YOU BITCH AND MOAN.

I never said its your fault someone cant do anything... if a map maker steps out becouse of one stupid negative comment... thats his own stupid mistake if he cant take comment.
I fully know what im doing, and i take it so do you, but I never said anything about everything being your fault... i just said what your BASICLY saying with your attitude.

Ofcourse you dont learn if everything gets handed to you, and ofcourse mistakes are there to learn. But to take my drawing skills as an example, i learned drawing as good as i do now by looking at others and using their technique. Same goes for my HTML skills... I use other ppl scripts sometimes but I modifie it to my own needs... and that isnt always easy in 75 page document, to find exactly the things you need to change.

Point is you always learn from what your doing, you either learn something you can use more often... or something you should never do again.

Get my point?

No, I don't get your point. You have none besides admitting to being a plagiarist - taking the work of others and passing it off as your own, albeit with minor modifications to it.

A community of plagiarists will get no further than this piece of shit modification community we have to begin with.

Cue the "IT'S ALL YOUR FAULT (SOMEHOW)" kiddies

If you dont get the point... i dunno from what planet you are...

I believe I said a few post ago that ppl can pass it on as their own work... but with telling along with it, that it wouldnt have been posible without YOUR work. And what do you mean that I am a plagiarist? Have I EVER taken somebuddy els his work and passed it on as my own???? Well? Give me evidence!

Admitted to doing what? Taking someone elss work and sayings its my own? yea right... When was that? Must have been drunk or something cuz i never took someones work and said it was my own.
