This is an application that i've been working on just recently. It will essentially be used to locate your westwood online renegade buddies without the need to open renegade itself.

Screenshot: <http://www.spliff.wideboys.co.uk/files/pictures/buddylist2.gif>

There are a few major benefits of using this:

- a) There is practically no restriction as to how many buddy names you can add. You can greatly exceed the existing WOL restriction of twenty entries per login. In actual fact, you will be able to have as many as 32767 entries if you somehow find the need to!
- b) The application is already much faster than the buddy list you've been used to within the existing Renegade interface.

I'm gonna need a few pre-release testers as i'm not completely sure how the program will react with different systems/firewalls. If you would like to help with the testing, please either speak with me in #n00bstories or PM me with your system specs and contact e-mail address.

Thanks.

I got, and started testing it. One thing that would be really handy. Like on AIM you know how you can devide buddy's into like "Folders". So you get a name, and press + next to it to access them. Can support for that be added? Cause if so that would be really handy. I wanted to put every one on these forums in a folder and all my friends I know in real life in a nother folder. Just think it would be a neat feature, but great work so far npsmith!

This program is going to be very 1337!!!!!!!!!!

I could help testing for you. I am using a router and firewall so I sometimes do get complications with certain programs. So If you need me I am at mirage3020@hotmail.com.

Could he be not telling the whole story I just saw C4Kittys status and it was a little 0_o...

Maybe there's more to it than he is telling us.

Are you aware that Olaf Van Der Speck wrote a utility called "XRG Game Viewer" that shows all the renegade servers, and also your buddy list? Maybe you guys could collaborate
