My only concerns in 'RenGuard' are:

A) What it scans. What SPECIFIC Directorie(s) does it scan, and what files.

B) CD Keys. How can we trust 'RenGuard' that it won't steal any serials we have on our PC's? What do we do.. just take Crimson's, mac's or someone else's word for it? HaH! Anyone can say it doesn't when it does, so how can we trust you in this?

C) Botnets. I have seen Botnet-Scripts binded into applications, and it works. How can we trust that you won't do the same? (With the rumors of Crimson's botnet on QuakeNet)

Really, without solid proof how can WE trust YOU? (The RenGuard team). I have often seen Crimson refer to herself as the "Community Leader", which she isn't because no-one is the "Community Leader", but people may believe this is true. Some people will also believe anything she would say. If she said (for example) that Final-Renegade (the cheat program) had a Trojan in (which both Crimson & Blazer said), which for the records, IT HASN'T / DIDN'T, people believed that..

When i asked people in #n00bstories for Logs of their Anti Virus Scanner, or Firewall showing "Final-Renegade.exe" as a Virus, or accessing the internet, the conversation went something like this:

Xtrm2Matt: has anyone got any proof of Final-Renegade being a trojan?
Nick1: yes
Nick2: yes
Nick3: yes
Nick4: yes
Nick5: yes
Xtrm2Matt: show me the logs of your scanners then Nick1: Oh.. don't have them
Nick2: deleted them
Nick3: what logs?
Nick4: i was lieing
Nick5: Ummm, i don't have logs, it doesn't save them

..You get my point?

Now until the RenGuard team can proove that it doesn't scan for CD-Keys.. install a Botnet onto your PC.. make your PC turn into Windows ME.. make your Monitor blow up.. or anything like that, so basically, the bottom line is.. HOW CAN WE TRUST THIS APPLICATION?

You know, I installed Enemy Territory this week, and it installs PunkBuster...It tells you that it's installing it, and says you don't have a choice, in fact it says "You WILL be using PunkBuster while you play". Did I freak out? No. Did I say OMG it might be botnetting me? No.

I would say that anyone with a firewall such as ZoneAlarm etc can verify it has no botnet trojan, but you would then just counter that it could be programmed to only connect to the botnet at certain times/dates.

We can basically argue this point forever back and forth, but the fact is, its not the APPLICATION that you do not trust, its Crimson. But guess what, she is not programming it...not a single line of code.

If you don't trust Renguard, then use whatever method that satisfies you to verify its integrity. Since you yourself have a botnet, you should know what to look for   Of course you always have the option of not using it, and you can play on all the servers swarming with cheaters. It sounds to me like you are being untrustworthy of the wrong people.

And damnit, "RenGuard Team" shut Crimson up. She brags too much about a program that:

(2) Has no alpha or beta released yet
(3) Violated logo copyrights (renegade logo)

I mean, cmon ... you're not better than anyone else. Get off the ego trip.

Matt, i have made it a personal effort to ensure the security of this app and system, and that it does valid things, i can read the language it is written in, and i can understand what it is doing, and will be evaluating the source code upon completion when this is done, and before it is release.

now, fl00d3d, before you go all "stupid" on what i just said.
i have many apps running throughout this Renegade community RIGHT NOW, and have built the trust of the players as my software is clean and legit. So don't even go to "well if you say it is good, should that be enough?" type thing.

Why no beta "here is a head start on how to go around our app"
Why no source "here is the methods we use so you can go around the app" btw, the idea of the ant-cheat mod was great, but don't ever confuse a .pkg file compiled of given resources from a gaming company as a program, this just goes to show, you know about as much about what you are talking about as i know who you are...

Ummm....
(A) RenGuard is a realitivly new concept
(B) Why would they reveal any sourcecode that has been developed?

fl00d3d(2) Has no alpha or beta released yet

Again, RenGuard is a new concept. Do you have a "Beta" release for any anti-cheats that you CLAIM to have created or help create?

fl00d3d(3) Violated logo copyrights (renegade logo)

I mean, cmon ... you're not better than anyone else. Get off the ego trip.

IMO when EA gave Crimson the rights for the Renegade Forums, they gave her rights to use the Renegade logo. Also, EA/WW had a Fanpack that had the Renegade logo for public use in it. :rolleyes:

Go back under that rock in which you came from. I don't like you and I don't trust you. You have yet to give us any proof in to who you are or what you can do, other than making a cheesy website with FrontPage.

Maybe because people have trust in some people, i.e Crimson. So why not? Hey! Lets steal their serial numbers because they trust us!!!!!1111

Majiin Vegetayou like this with every program sumone makes?

Let's get this straight, i hate Final-Renegade, i hate the Big-Head Skins / Mods. I like the person who released it however, Ty aka Abarrat. Really, i don't give a shit who doesn't like me, OR who doesn't like me for who i like (confusing really), but lets get this straight, the community members cannot choose my friends, i choose my friends and i stay loyal to them.

I have known Ty for nearly 2 years, longer than i known 99.8% of you for, we have never fell out, and i consider Ty a good friend. Along with Adam, aka Revolt who you all see as a bad person.

Don't get me wrong people, i hate Cheaters, i hate Cheats, i don't hate everyone, however, i hate the people i wish to hate, not the people you want me to hate.

Why do you ask for the source now!? Why didnt you ask for the source when Dante made the other programs!? How about [BR] ??
No alpha or beta is released.... WELL DOH!!!!! Why the fuck should they do that??? So that the community has to download an update over and over again!???
And please dont even begin about logo copyrights!!! You don't know shit about the Renegade Community websites, fanpacks, copyrights and I bet you dont even know wtf HTML is!

blargh, yes you WILL have to download a client application in order to report the correct information to the server, now, i will talk to the team about releasing exactly what we are scanning, only we won't tell you how or for what, as to keep that secure.

anywayz, you could always use regmon, filemon, portmon to see exactly what the app is scanning, as well as where it is connecting.

(1) I guess that's the same reason they didn't realease sourcecode for any Red Hat kernels or programs, huh? Because they were worried about hackers finding errors in the code. Your argument does not hold weight. If you knew ANYTHING about open-source projects, you would understand why it is done and the advantages of it. You're probably a Microsoft-drone, aren't you? "Must ... obey ... Bill ..."

(2) Dante's program isn't a world class program in my opinion. I have enough knowledge to produce my own software. And visual basic is one of the easiest programming languages out there (in my opinion).
And heaven forbid you'd have to "update" ... what a concept!

(3) I'm sure that when Crimson got her "permission" to run an official forum it was nothing more than a formal request by a professional. Companies don't have problems with things like that -- so it's not that unique. As for the logo, if you read the copyright information you'll notice that anyone can download, save, etc the logos (as you can with most logos for anything on the internet) as long as you do not manipulate it or misrepresent it.   " ... as long as you do not manipulate it or misrepresent it". How long did it take to edit that graphic in Microsoft Paint? Probably not that long.

(4) Yeah, I don't know shit about websites, fanpacks, or copyrights ... whatever. My guess is that you're a 14 year old kid like most of the people out there that thinks he's an elite Renegade player, elite hacker, professional programmer, and webmaster all in one. Well guess what, punk? I'm a 22 year old PROFESSIONAL network security analyst with former black hat experience. I have a fairly extensive background in programming (various languages). And HTML is about as easy of a language (if not easier) as vB. In fact, I think it's much easier.

And to sumarize my argument against you, I will challenge you to ANYTHING. Writing a better program ... cracking a code ... hacking a website ... anything. Why do I challenge you? Because I'm convinced that you're a complete moron based on what you wrote to me. You have no idea who you're talking to.

I think a lot of you have a warped perception of who I really am just because I religiously played Renegade along with everyone else. That was a hobby people. You have no idea who I am in real life.

So, Nox, bring it!

TO THE RENGUARD TEAM:

You guys are doing great work. I just posted to Crimson yesterday apologizing for some of the accusations I've made. I'm giving you the benefit of the doubt --- though we'll never really know for sure until the program is released and tested.

TO DANTE REGARDING MY LAST POST:

Please don't be offended by my post about BlazeRegulator coding. You know just as well as I do that Visual Basic is not a terribly difficult language to program in.

I'm not saying that you're not good at what you do or that BlazeRegulator is a bad program. I'm just saying that people shouldn't get all high and mighty on people like me with the same knowledge as you just because I haven't released a program. It's a cool utility.

TO THE REST OF THE RENEGADE COMMUNITY:

Multiple groups are working on anti-cheats. To the best of my knowledge the RenGuard team is working on the most robust solution so give them your support. There will always be those that try to figure out a way around it, but if we work together we can quickly fix that.

Please pick a side and stay with it. Every other day you switch from 'Okay I guess you guys are doing an okay job' to 'Ok now I will switch from helping the community to destroying the community'. We really don't care if you doubt us or not. RenGuard WILL be released. Servers WILL run it, and you WILL have to install it to play on said servers. If you insist on being paranoid and narrowminded then you can simply not install it or play on those servers. You have done nothing but bash us from day one that you came from nowhere, and frankly I'm tired of defending myself and the team against your ravings and comparisons of experience (yet you claim you are not bragging). I am 34 years old and have worked with computers since my first which was a Timex Sinclair 1000. I have had computer systems/network/security jobs all my life. I had a sysadmin job at my high school, I had one at my university, I had one for the state goverment, for Qwest Communications, and Cisco Systems. I have been compensated by several companies for doing penetration tests and doing security analysis. I have been alive on this earth over 10 years longer than you, and its safe to say I have more experience than you in almost any regard except apparently your skill at being obnoxious. Now that we have seen whose cock is bigger as far as experience goes, we can drop that subject.

Since when did Dante or anyone get high and mighty? YOU are the one that demanded to know the teams credentials. The fact that Dante, djlaptop, me, and mac have released programs to the community is simply an indication that we work FOR the community and have an interest in making things that people find useful, so its absurd to insinuate that we are untrustworthy and/or have alterior motives like stealing serial numbers. Its common knowledge that I was the one who exposed the first and only trojan released by FlyingBuzz that actually tried to steal serials, why would I want to steal them for myself? [/quote]

Both the self-proclaimed community leader and Blazer (GF & BF , Both on the Renguard Team) have lied about Final rene, I realized this when I downloaded the application myself to check it out firsthand and also to validate what xtrmatt is saying.

I have found people whom lie usually lie more then once, some people say "Oh why would they prevent you from playing Renegade via sitting on your Serial number with a bogus account.

I would have no problem using Renguard if Blazer could answer just 1 question with a truthful response..

why you have lied about this Final rene being infected with some type of virus ?

Say someone with little/no decent computer knowledge comes onto the forums looking for info on the final rene hack. If they see posts by people going "yeah, its fine, safe and no one will know", they are going to go and download it quicker than you can say "im a cheating git".

No suppose the same person comes onto the forums and sees posts by people saying "its got a virus in it, it will kill your system" ect ect. They are far less likely to download it and try it if they think its gonna ruin their computer.

Of course, this is just my take on whats happened, and of course renguard is gonna be checked by tonnes of people before we put it on the blueyonder servers, but thats just common sence.

Blaze. Good on you.

But what about your peers? What about the people that work with you that are older than you? Are they more experienced that you? At least that's what I'm deducing from your statement.

Further, I never had the cozy sysadmin job at my high school. No, I was too busy hacking the network. Now, one could sucessfully argue that it is much harder to secure a network than it is to attack one. I agree. But I'm sure you had a limited knowledge of the OS at that time and you were more or less creating user accounts.

You flame on me for starting a "competition to see who has the larger balls" ... yet you continue to rave about your life and your accomplishments. You should do what I've done, and just stop talking about yourself and move on.

http://www.n00bstories.com/renforums/viewtopic.php?t=7406&start=14

Work on RenGuard so people can stop bickering about its release. If people want to download it, they will. Otherwise they'll remain suspicious until the day its released as an official patch (which will be never) --- and they'll never have anything to do with it.

Let me give you a recommendation. Take it or leave it.

Explain how the cheats work. Each of them individually. Yes, you may think this is counter productive to your cause, but hear me out.

Then explain exactly what your product does to counter this. You don't have to release code ... (maybe have some people outside your group verify this) ... but put it in dummy language for people that don't understand the technicals behind it. This way they'll have more faith it what you're doing -- and if your program does something other than what you've explained, they can sue your ass.

Please stop the flaming. I've already made the post (you read above) that says I've stopped ... so please move on. Focus your energy on RenGuard and not flaming. Same with the rest of you.

And look into HALO. It looks like a cool game.

Regards,

Here's a better question. Why the fuck does it matter? It's a cheat, and you shouldn't be downloading it in the first place.

It matters because you want me to trust what this person says, actually both people, Crimson and Blazer. How can you be so naive to overlook Blazers lies and resort to finger pointing?

Its a Mod, it modifies the game and Crimson and Blazer both downloaded it, so what makes me any different that I cant download it? WHY? Because im not a self-proclaimed community leader? Is that it?

I download what my ISP allows me to, I doubt my ISP is going to think a mod file for a FPS Game is a breach of TOS, but making an EXE for the game is against the Renegade AUP, the people who made that app should be banned by EA. And Renguard would 100% be breaking the AUP for Team, basically the Renguard Team is Reverse Engineering a game that you have agreed NOT TO REVERSE ENGINER. Cough ASM.

Crimson and blazer both need to start telling the truth.
If Both Crimson and Blazer never lied about Final rene being infected I might actually believe some of the other comments they have made in these forums.

I doubt Renguard will be even finished, as ive already mention, its not legitimate.

Notice both Blazer and Crimson have yet to reply to my questions raised ?

In order to discover how to stop a cheat, you have to know how the cheat works. The only way to do this is to experiance it first hand. As for the "self-proclimation" of them, they never decided that, they worked for it, and earned that spot through dedication to the game and the community.

Quote:I doubt Renguard will be even finished, as ive already mention, its not legitimate.

Don't speak of things you obviously know nothing about, and never bothered to recearched in the first place.. I'm not going to answer this, but only say look elsewhere in the forum, this question has been answered already.

and one last thing...

Governments have lied to thier own populations more than this... and with things more serious than this. Yet people still believe them after the fact. You don't trust them, fine, don't download the program. I fortunatly won't be seeing you on any respectable server after it's release, so unless you persue this useless and pointless arguement, I won't waste my time with you.

Final Renegade DOES break the law. Online harrassments laws and violation of privacy.

RenGuard doesn't reverse engineer Renegade.

You have absolutely NO IDEA about how RenGuard works or the progress so stop speaking on the matter like you're an authority.

information used in that application was on a public domain, as your well aware, any information you post on a public domain becomes public property.

uhh.. the personal information displayed in Final Renegade, displayed on public domains or not, is being used to harass the people involved. They have thier pictures displayed, as well as whatever other personal information. I direct you to http://www.onlineharassment.com . You can find there exactly what laws are being broken.

http://www.onlineharassment.com/photos.htm

Quote:Defamation
Generally, this is when a photo is used to injure the subject's reputation. For example, if a photo is altered so that the subject's head appears on the body of a naked person or it is made to appear that the person is falsely engaged in illicit, illegal or inappropriate acts that would cause people to think less of him/her.

The photos in the presentation constitute online harrassment. Stretching the images to make Blazer, djlaptop, and myself appear to weigh more than we do constitute harrassment, as does adding "speech bubbles" that make us appear to be saying insulting things about ourselves.

We are not revealing anymore about how RenGuard works than what you see on RenGuard.com.

This is not because I don't understand how it works. I do understand in a little more than general terms. I listen and watch the team work all day. I don't answer because you don't need to know. That's like locking my car so you can't steal my stereo, and then hand you the keys. It's stupid.

I am not convinced that Final Renegade isn't infected. Check it out all you want, but I've heard from more than one source that it is infected, even a quote from Ty himself. So I'm not going to take that back.

If Ty is going to say he doesn't support cheating, then release Final Renegade, then I'm not going to believe him, and neither should you, when he says it's not infected.

Interesting..

pretty much doing the same as what you have described, its called FREEDOM OF SPEACH.

The picture in mention was originally on your site as I myself had viewed the picture from a link found at cncammo.com (I think)

With all the expertise you have at your fingertips im surprised your unable to provide an Anti Virus scanner log of this infected file and or a Firewall log of the application attempting to send out an unauthorized packet.

I stand by what I have found, which is, the FILE is NOT INFECTED.

I speculate you have Stated that it is infected due to the fact your not happy with this application

I do sympathies with the harassment your receiving but one must be careful when posting sensitive information on the Internet of a WAN accessible computer.

Do you even bother to research what you accuse people of????

Since you are obviously so ignorant of facts, I guess I have to provide you with the information publically, when you could have done this privately.

If someone has posted your photograph on a web site without your permission, you need to be aware of your rights. Aside from the fact that lifting someone's graphics or photos from their web site is a violation of copyright, there are other legal considerations if your request to have the photos removed isn't successful. To have a photo removed from a web site, consider whether any of the following has occurred:

Invasion of Privacy
This may apply if the subject of the photo is portrayed falsely and/or in an offensive manner. It is also considered an invasion of privacy if the photograph was taken while the subject was in a situation where privacy was expected, i.e., the photographer took the photo while peeping through a bedroom window. Photos taken in a public place or at a gathering or event where the public is invited, generally does not constitute invasion of privacy.

Right of Publicity
This can occur when a photo is used on a commercial website. The unauthorized use of a photograph on web site that is selling a product or service would probably violate an individual's right of publicity as it may appear that the subject is endorsing the product or service.

Defamation
Generally, this is when a photo is used to injure the subject's reputation. For example, if a photo is altered so that the subject's head appears on the body of a naked person or it is made to appear that the person is falsely engaged in illicit, illegal or inappropriate acts that would cause people to think less of him/her.

If any of these situations apply to you, you'll want to contact the web host (if the photos are posted on a private domain) or the webmaster or abuse department if they are hosted on a free web space provider or other web site. If the photo isn't removed, you should contact the legal department of the web hosting provider or take your complaint to the next level of support.

As I said, despite the fact that the pics were on a public domane, it doesn't give the person the right to harass, defame, and invade a persons privacy

Here I'll even do you the favor of breaking it down for you, since you seem unable to do that yourself.

Harassment: the specific thing that they are doing... which is broken down into the latter groups.

Defamation of Character: The photo's and personal information being displayed has the potential to cause harm to the reputation of those involved, even though an online reputation means nothing, displaying the personal information allows the possibility of the harassment to cary into her personal life.

Invasion of Privacy

to quote from the site directly..."This may apply if the subject of the photo is portrayed falsely" This is true because the cheat suggests that those displayed were the creators of the cheat.

Rights of Publicity

again to quote from the site... " The unauthorized use of a photograph on web site that is selling a product or service would probably violate an individual's right of publicity as it may appear that the subject is endorsing the product or service."

This applies as well with programs. Once again because the pictures being displayed will cause people to assume that they endorse the product.

Freedom of speech does not apply when it involved illigal activity.

Oh, I'm sorry, apparently celebrities fall under different laws that I do. Read warranto's post. He knows what he's talking about.

The most recent site I had shut down was http://unknowncheats.homeip.net/ -- I reported them to DynDNS and they informed me that "This user's accounts have been terminated for their violations of our AUP."

Now the dynamic IP resolves to a 10.x.x.x IP which basically doesn't let you connect to it since 10. is reserved for local IPs.

Now you're trying to wriggle out of it by saying "oh, it's just funny". Yeah, ruining the game for hundreds of gamers is HILARIOUS!!! Suuuure.

Twisting words? Just because Crimson isn't a celebrity doesn't mean she doesn't have the same legal rights.

And as for the specifics as to what you meant by harassment, it's not twisting your words, you stated what you did and she countered. If you meant otherwise you should have stated otherwise. But since you don't get that, I'll attempt to explain it to you. What you stated encompassed ALL harrasament going on, simply because you did not state any specifics doesn't matter. So Crimson countered exactly what you said. So maybe you should grow up... stating something and then crying and complaining afterwords that it wasn't what you meant is VERY childish.

Iris2003warranto, I just laugh at your replies.

Oh and its kind of lame when all you can resort to is incorrect spelling of 1 or 2 words. Please get some debating skills.

the application is a 3rd party application, not a modification and or skin, its an exe / 3rd party application. The Fact they are using ASM to construct this application also suggests they are reverse engineering the game and or FDS, which is also Against the AUP.

Iris

First of all, please show me where I corrected the spelling of two of your words...

Second of all, I'm no ones lapdog. If Crimson is wrong to any reasonable extent, I point it out.. when someone else on the forum, no matter who they are, if they are wrong to any reasonable extent, I will correct them if I know the answer. Just because you are the one posting garbage, and I'm correcting you doesn't mean that I'm her lapdog. Though I guess you have nothing intelligent to say about any of my other posts, so I expected you to resort to this.

I am SO glad you FINALLY brought this up... well guess what? (I'm only going to hint on the answer in the hopes that your at least intelligent enough to figure it out) You just hit the nail on the head (finally). Though this whole could of been avoided had you searched the forum, as this point was brought up before.

Exactly my point, both applications are against the Renegade AUP.

Quote:I already answered this uneducated accusation.

What do you think using ASM to code the application is doing crimson?

That's funny... earlier you said Final Renegade was legal.

Quote:Quote:I already answered this uneducated accusation.

You obviously aren't a programmer, then. You have no idea what ASM does, what it's used for, and why it's better than most programming languages.

Now all repeat me.

If you don't want to use it don't download it and play on the servers with cheats.

fl00d3dnox:

"Lets go on to my next victim, FLOODED:

You are full of shit too!!!
DONT YA SEE THEY CANT GIVE OUT THE SOURCECODE!?
Why do you ask for the source now!? Why didnt you ask for the source when Dante made the other programs!? How about [BR] ??
No alpha or beta is released.... WELL DOH!!!!! Why the fuck should they do that??? So that the community has to download an update over and over again!???
And please dont even begin about logo copyrights!!! You don't know shit about the Renegade Community websites, fanpacks, copyrights and I bet you dont even know wtf HTML is!"

(1) I guess that's the same reason they didn't realease sourcecode for any Red Hat kernels or programs, huh? Because they were worried about hackers finding errors in the code. Your argument does not hold weight. If you knew ANYTHING about open-source projects, you would understand why it is done and the advantages of it. You're probably a Microsoft-drone, aren't you? "Must ... obey ... Bill ..."

(2) Dante's program isn't a world class program in my opinion. I have enough knowledge to produce my own software. And visual basic is one of the easiest programming languages out there (in my opinion).
And heaven forbid you'd have to "update" ... what a concept!

(3) I'm sure that when Crimson got her "permission" to run an official forum it was nothing more than a formal request by a professional. Companies don't have problems with things like that -- so it's not that unique. As for the logo, if you read the copyright information you'll notice that anyone can download, save, etc the logos (as you can with most logos for anything on the internet) as long as you do not manipulate it or misrepresent it.   " ... as long as you do not manipulate it or misrepresent it". How long did it take to edit that graphic in Microsoft Paint? Probably not that long.

(4) Yeah, I don't know shit about websites, fanpacks, or copyrights ... whatever. My guess is that you're a 14 year old kid like most of the people out there that thinks he's an elite Renegade player, elite hacker, professional programmer, and webmaster all in one. Well guess what, punk? I'm a 22 year old PROFESSIONAL network security analyst with former black hat experience. I have a fairly extensive background in programming (various languages). And HTML is about as easy of a language (if not easier) as vB. In fact, I think it's much easier.

And to sumarize my argument against you, I will challenge you to ANYTHING. Writing a better program ... cracking a code ... hacking a website ... anything. Why do I challenge you? Because I'm convinced that you're a complete moron based on what you wrote to me. You have no idea who you're talking to.

I think a lot of you have a warped perception of who I really am just because I religiously played Renegade along with everyone else. That was a hobby people. You have no idea who I am in real life.

So, Nox, bring it!

(1a) -Because they were worried about hackers finding errors in the code.- You answered correctly. And guess what!? Nobody knows you so I doubt it they will give the source to you.

(1b) "If you knew ANYTHING about open-source projects" < Well I know... But why does it matter? This isn't an open-source and they don't want it to become open source, see (1a) for the reason...... :rolleyes:

(1c) "You're probably a Microsoft-drone, aren't you? "Must ... obey ... Bill ..."" < pffff.... You're probably stupid, aren't you? "Must ... be ... stupid ..."

(2) You still didn't answer my question: "Why should they bring out an alpha version?" I mean... Its not open source... They are worried about crackers finding errors in the code...

(3) I have to think about an answer for (3) yet...

(4) Sorry??? I THINK (?) I'm an elite player? I KNOW I am.. And no.. I don't think I'm a hacker or a pro programmer. (But you could call me webmaster, cos I made websites and I know PHP, Java & JavaScript... "Well guess what, punk? blablabla... moron stuff... blablala... " You didn't even understand You don't know shit about the Renegade Community websites, fanpacks, copyrights and I bet you dont even know wtf HTML is! Let me explain, what I meant to say is: You dont know anything about the community!!! ..... I don't care u being a nsa...

(5) I have no time to play with you... So no.... I don't accept your challenge. But hey, you could look in WOL for me. I want to blow up your face in Renegade... My nick is ColdNoX.
Let me help you finding me > In WOL TYPE: /locate ColdNoX ... :rolleyes:

(6) You have no idea who I am in real life. .... < Yor a 22 year old PROFESSIONAL   network security analyst with former black hat experience. :rolleyes: :rolleyes:
Do we care? NO

Iris2003What I find odd about the above statement is the fact you falsified the truth when posting virus that you mentioned.   In short you have not told the truth.

That is interesting because I have made no comments about Final Renegade being infected, in fact I have made no comments at all other than responding to people asking why me, Ack, Crimson, shane etc made these cheats (we did not).

Iris2003Both the self-proclaimed community leader and Blazer (GF & BF , Both on the Renguard Team) have lied about Final rene, I realized this when I downloaded the application myself to check it out firsthand and also to validate what xtrmatt is saying.

We have been referred to as community leaders by community members, probably because we donate our resources of time, money, help etc, but we have never proclaimed to be leaders, especially not with the arrogance that you imply.

Iris2003I have found people whom lie usually lie more then once, some people say "Oh why as well as prevent you from playing Renegade via sitting on your Serial number with a bogus account.

Yes, there are many people who lie. That doesn't mean that EVERYONE is a liar. I cannot even fathom a reason that me or any member of the renguard team would want anyones serial number. We all have our own legit copies of Renegade. And if I want another, I will just go to Frys and get a legit one for $9.99.

Iris2003
I would have no problem using Renguard if Blazer could answer just 1 question with a truthful response..

why you have lied about this Final rene being infected with some type of virus ?

Iris

See above. I have NEVER stated that Final Renegade was infected with a virus. If you can show me where I said this, I would be interested to see it.

fl00d3dBut what about your peers? What about the people that work with you that are older than you? Are they more experienced that you? At least that's what I'm deducing from your statement.

Age alone is not a guage for experience. However, age does give one the chance to get more experience if they make use of that time.

fl00d3dFurther, I never had the cozy sysadmin job at my high school. No, I was too busy hacking the network. Now, one could sucessfully argue that it is much harder to secure a network than it is to attack one. I agree. But I'm sure you had a limited knowledge of the OS at that time and you were more or less creating user accounts.

Heh...I'm glad that from a single sentence from me, you assume that I knew nothing and deduce exactly what my job role was. I could tell you that I was the foremost expert, and that I was often pulled out of class to fix things because nobody else knew how the system worked, but that wouldn't matter as you would just find some other detail to nitpick, and it's just plain silly to even debate ones technical competence in high school.

fl00d3dYou flame on me for starting a "competition to see who has the larger balls" ... yet you continue to rave about your life and your accomplishments. You should do what I've done, and just stop talking about yourself and move on.

I didn't say word one about my experience and competence until you questioned them. As for doing what you have done, I probably allready did long ago unless you are working on something new and groundbreaking. I have worked with computer systems all my life and done everthing from hacking, to network security, to circuit design. I majored in Computer Engineering, and made a six figure salary leading a team of 12 IP Systems Engineers, so I will be damned if someone is going to tell me that I have no technical expertise. And yet although you keep insulting me and challenging my experience, when I correct you, you say I am "raving" and "bragging". Whatever dude.

fl00d3dExplain how the cheats work. Each of them individually. Yes, you may think this is counter productive to your cause, but hear me out.

Then explain exactly what your product does to counter this. You don't have to release code ... (maybe have some people outside your group verify this) ... but put it in dummy language for people that don't understand the technicals behind it. This way they'll have more faith it what you're doing -- and if your program does something other than what you've explained, they can sue your ass.

That's not a bad idea and I have no problem with explaining in detail how the cheats work, after Renguard is released of course...no reason to start another wave of cheating by giving out how its done. As for releasing fake source code, it would probably work, but just not honest. The source code will not be released for the same reason you cannot view the source code to Windows Update patches, or windows itself. You are just told what it does, what it fixes, and thats it. If you don't trust the source then that is your problem. MOST people trust the RenGuard team, as we have proven by our past efforts of time, help, money, and services for the community that we are the "good guys".

To "fl00d3r",

I was going to write a long and sensible post and try to get through to your obviously small intellect, But I will not waste my time on an obviously thick-headed fuckwit who doesn't listen. So I will put it in the most simple of terms so that even YOU can understand it...

You have been OWNED on every thread you have posted in, No one cares what you have to say. Now kindly fuck off and go bother someone else, KTHXBYE.

It's quite astounding as to how Iris can keep trying to argue his points which he himself has contridicted. If you're anything more than a child with a daddy or mommy at Cisco, then I would be greatly surprised, because you're not showing an ounce of adult intellect.

Not only that, you're trying to argue issues... That you know nothing about! My God, the idiocy is enough to knock one off their feet. Tell you what, if you want to keep up this little crusade you've got going here (for the love of God, please do, your replies have me rolling) then by all means, keep fighting for this cause which doesn't seem to exist; but, if you want to just say "I'm sorry, I made an error in my judgement", then I'll hold nothing against you, and I'm sure no one here will either.

As far as i'm concerned fl00d3d your the new guy in the community, you may have all your experience and what not, but just to walk in to a community that already has a structure and a way of doing things and start ordering them around demanding source code and what ever you want, because you see yourself as a superior, is certainly not the way to do things.

The current rengaurd team can complete this task without you (easily) so live with it. also congratulations on single handedly turning the rengaurd forums in to an unoffical flaming forum

Evaluation: Just STFU

To fl00d3d, if you are so experienced...in programming/hacking/cracking what the hell do you need the source code for???

You are still to prove that you can crack/hack whatever I said can't be (note you didn't say it must be concerned with gaming) cracked/hacked, refer to post http://www.renegadeforums.com/viewtopic.php?t=7085&start=75

To all peeps out there , here is a group of people who cares and is trying to make Renegade better for the majority of people who play online. Whether you prefer to trust them, keep things as they are and play on servers without RenGuard (with cheaters) or don't play at all, at the end of the day is upto you. Thats the choice that you are going to have to make.

To the RenGuard team, I think what you are doing is great, keep up the good work and I'm sure 95-99% of the people who play renegade on-line will enjoy the cheat-free gameplay.

Cheers,
D.

I'm --><-- this close to just deleteing all these stupid posts and threads insulting the renguard team and questioning our ethics. This forum is supposed to be a source of information and ask questions (real questions) and instead its turning into "lets see what BS fl00ded and iris have come up with today". Of course the moment I do, they will post again saying we are trying to hide something :rolleyes:

2. The files he is offering are indeed virus/trojans. DO NOT DOWNLOAD THEM.

Every file I have seen Ty and friends advertise illegally via relay bots on WOL were trojans. I have no reason to believe that anything he distributes is legit.

Arrrrrggh.

Guys. I keep posting over and over again about how this is stupid to argue. The point that you keep dragging this on after I've stopped arguing proves a lot. Just give it up. It's pointless.

We could all probably go back and forth for ages trying to defend our points of view (then again this is a forum). But the point is ... we're all here (hopefully) to secure the future of Renegade. So rather than bicker, lets work together and support these guys so it gets done and us l33t can start owning again.

In case you haven't heard, I've made truce with Crimson and we're both attempting to have a respectable relationship.

Regards,
