Dude, relax with the posting.

You don't need to respond to every post in every forum.

I think the only one you haven't nailed is the silo.

Griever92if you read all of my posts, you'd realize that all of them are relevant and worth the time to read. They are not even close to spam.

That is a matter of interpretation. I find none of them even mildly entertaining or informative. You are merely stating the obvious over and over. Case in point:
<http://www.n00bstories.com/renforums/viewtopic.php?t=7302>

As I look at the index, you have responded to every forum except the silo, and as I look in each forum, you have responded to so many, that it's impossible to determine what the hot topic is.

Do you really feel you adding intelligent, helpful discourse in each topic?

Doubt it.

who the fuck cares how much anyone posts. if they post 24/7 it shouldnt make any difference. for anyone else it just means that he has an opinion on the topic like most people that post.

and if you wanna say he is spamming look at who started this thread and everyone knows how useless this topic is becouse all it did is start a flame war if the posts where useless then try sending him a pm instaed of started a new thread

Before you hit submit, think if what you've posted is worth the download time and reading time.

Yeah, that both accounts should be banned, or deleted, or all of the above.

He creates 'guest' for the sole purpose of attacking someone and spamming, and than he opposes himself in the other thread to make it look like they're not the same person, and he actually thinks everyone here is stupid enough to believe it.
