Accepting Donations

Hello, and thank you all for coming to RenEvo, and being members of this site. I will be frank and honest with you about something that is troubling the future of our community.

RenEvo uses vBulletin Technology, and up until this point, having a license was not necessary, due to the success and size of the community, it now has come to my attention that i need to purchase a license for the site (brought to my attention by vBulletin legal department).

The cost of said license is $160, honestly, at this point, i can not afford to purchase said license, as i am having financial difficulties of my own. I would like to see RenEvo keep its current content and users, as well as flourish in the future.

Im not demanding, or even expecting anyone to donate, but if you would donate something for the cause, it would be great, and we could continue on our current path. Otherwise, the site will have to come down as i can not continue to run the site without a legal license from vBulletin.com (<http://www.vbulletin.com>).

Thanks alot, and if and when i do start to receive any donations, i will keep you up to date on the running total. Currently i have been given till the 28th of September to purchase the license, i hope we can make that date, and keep RenEvo flourishing greatly. Im sorry it has come to this, and i was not expecting this to happen.

We all know what this could mean if the site goes down. Help if you can!

September 28th is 4 days away!

All sorted now, but I guess Dante could do with some more cash for all his hard work if you really want to give it to him.
