Yeah this popped up earlier asking me to install it. It's not unusual for a patch to be released to fix a patch. It happens all the time in Planetside, they patch the game then end up patching it again next time as the previous one made loads of bugs.

It makes you wonder how it happens, currently the beta patch for Planetside has bugged all the vehicles so the tracks and wheels don't move when the vehicles does however they work at the moment in the last patch so they obviously did something to bust it.

Hmmm... Maybe they did, and there weren't any errors, but new errors arose after the final compile and creation of the patch file(s)? Or maybe they just suck at testing their own code???

Wow, They tell OEMs' to not put Netscape Explorer on their computers, even when the customers asked specifically they want it or they'll lose the Microsoft License.

Money bag, Bill Gates is racking up another billion.
