These are something I have found, they were from the Westwood website back in 2001 when Renegade was still in production. The text is from the news articles that the pictures were with.

"Check out these ads for Command & Conquer: Renegade! They'll be blasting their way into the September issues of your favorite computer gaming magazines. These images show first hand how Havoc's the only one that can bring you the C&C experience up close and personal, whether he's "borrowing" a Nod Buggy, feeling the heat from the Obelisk of Light in his Mammoth Tank, or crashing Kane's party, Ion Cannon style."

The Light Tank at the bottom is the original Light Tank, which is in my possession.

Yeah, you still going to make that Original C&C mod for it after Ren Alert or is that asking too much?

AprimeWhat's that basic soldier doing with a sniper rifle?

I don't think that is a sniper rifle... looks wrong, plus since none of the basic soldiers have the guns they have now,

Cool, Marketing and engineering departments differ. Can't judge a book by the cover.

Looks as if the Temple was a multiplayer structure as well.

That would have been nice.
