Never really left in a sense, I usually browse the forums, see what's going on, I just don't take part in much, or post alot anymore.

I don't think I'll be able to ever totally leave the Renegade community.

Well, if u have played this map you would of noticed its not a real big slaughter deathmatch based map, trees were integrated no only part of the terrain but to snekily attack your oponent, same for the "hedgehog" barriers that provide GDI soldier rushes.

How does everyone think about how smooth and different the map looks? (did u notice the shadows?)

Iterations make it look nice, but increase the poly count A LOT.
