Fuck off demo man. You self proclaim to hate renegade, and most of your posts here are anti-renegade, and now you come and advertise for another game. I'm not going to delete the thread or anything, I just thought I would reply and call you a dick

If they had taken a good engine renegade would have done better. But also the renegade communitie is so fucked now with ppl who all suck up to eachother.

If you would check soldner you can see how good it can be done. And I am not talking about the GFX b/c this game is newer but the shitload off MP modes. You know some off them that WS promised but never gave. :rolleyes:

HAHAHAHAHA.... I know the modem users would not like to wait that long but the Broadband users will have a kick out of it. You have to admit it was pretty funny.

You know you love them.

It's like telling your boss to f off, EA already owned Westwood before Renegade was released. It was a sub-company like Maxis is now and like Bullfrog was (yup EA closed them down before they could release DK 3 - which they had started work on). EA are turning into a monopoly like Microsoft is and there is little anyone can do about it, thats why new companies find it hard to get started off in the industry, unless you are a developer then your not likely to survive unless you do something big. In my opinion EA would have closed down Maxis if it wasn't for The Sims being so sucessfull.

Actually there are laws here in the U.S. that keep big companies like EA & Microsoft from becoming giant monopolies. They are only large corporations right now. In order to be a monopoly you have to be practically the only company that is in charge of the entire industry. So EA can probably only take in a few more companies if they haven't already reached their limit.

Demolition Man, no one cares about your advertising. It's obvious these people are gonna love Renegade till they die. I mean, come on, you and I KNOW these people are Renegade fanatics, just leave them be. I don't even play Renegade, run my lag-o-licious FDS, or have my Renegade site up anymore. I just stay because I know some good folks here (even though they're some bad ones).

...heh. Nothing new at all... You've always said nothing but pointless BS from the day I knew you. Makes me kinda pity for you honestly.
