The background is good but the text could use some work.

The text is to plain, try a bevel . . . try a darker blue also that shade of blue doesn't look right some reason . . .

not bad... but the text is rather plain, at a thin dark blue stroke on it... it would look pretty in pink then... I kinda like my sig, Its quite a bit stretched out, cuz its hard to find a 400x60 screenshot

When I have more time I may end up making some sigs for peoples at places like cnc guild so I can get some creds...

The only problem is the text really.

Move all of the text to the right a bit to cover the smaller man instead of the main one.

Next, select the text layer, then go to layer>layer styles and choose blending options.

Play around with those a bit to add a kick to your text.

I'd say for that sig to avoid putting to o much of a shadow, and do NOT put a bevel! It will look really crappy and ugly.

However, I really liked the shadow and edge on the main man. That looks good.

And the background is good too, but as your name is "Icesword" and not "firesword" how about changing the red on the background to a blue?

If you do that, leave the edge around the man red; It will contrast well.

You've done well on that. Needs a little adjustment and tweaking, but you got a good sig going on there.
