As for the true meaning of Aryan, do these people even know how to read? I mean ffs, Iran and India have a more valid claim on being descended from an Aryan nation than some dumbass redneck good ol boy.

No being gay is wrong. In case you don't remember God destroyed the cities of Sodom and Gamora (I probably spelled them wrong).

First of all it's just plain wrong from the sexual perspective of it. It's just not the way it's meant to be. It's not right and it's not okay. People are taking the idea of acceptance way too far these days. It's okay to accept a gay person because, yes, they are people too. But that doesn't mean we should accept the way they live. It's none of my business how they live their life, they just better stay the hell away from me.

If God actually destoried the cities of Sodom and Gamora, why are there still homosexuals in the world?

You're basing your morality off some words in an old book. Most of those words are good, but some are questionable. If we're taught to be accepting, why are you excluding homosexuals? Hypocrisy isn't a virtue.

I guess I'll explain it again. Homosexuality is not right and not moral. And in what way am I excuding homosexuals? I said they are people and I have no problem with them as long as don't don't try to come on to me or something.

And exactly what words in the Bible are questionable? I'm not claiming to know the book through and through because I don't, in fact I know very little. And yes, I'll base my morality off on it any day. Christianity is all about faith. It's easy to call me a hypocrite and I suppose because I claim to know right and wrong, yet I'm human and thus sinful.

Sorry if I offend anybody in any way because I don't intend to. But I'm going to stand up for what I believe in.

I think you misunderstood what I meant. I meant that some of the so-called "morals" of the Bible are questionable.

God sending plagues on Egypt to literally kill other humans, God smiting Sodom and Gomorrah. That's just two examples of a vengeful God. There is a difference between slapping someone on the wrist and breaking their neck.

I can't answer all the questions, but I can say that if God wanted to be believed by all through and through, He wouldn't go around killing the people He claims to love.

You meant same sex, not same race because no matter what if your male or female you are of the human race. I never said that being gay is right, or wrong, I just don't care whether or not someone is gay as long as they stay away from me, as says in the small text in my own quote. I do not think that being gay is proper though because we are meant to, like you said, create children. I don't really care whether or not someone is gay though because that is your sexual preference and as long as it isn't contagious I have no problem with you, unless of course you try and do something to me. All of you "anti-gays" are fine in expressing your feelings on people being gay, but there is no stopping it people just are that way. I heard in health class when we were studying sexually transmitted diseases that mainly gays have HIV and AIDS, is this true? because if so and people know that why would they want to be gay? I would think that if that was true and people knew it there would be a dramatic decline in gays and all of you anti-gays would not be able to complain as much because the amount of gays in society would be much less than it currently is, and gayness would be much less common, maybe even unheard of in some places. I am not gay, nor am I fighting for their cause, I am just stating what I feel on the issue of gays.

Luke 1:26-38

You sinned, I sinned, everybody sinned. We inherited this sinful nature from Adam. But NOW we can be saved by the blood of Jesus Christ. Jesus is our passover (Heb. 9:11-14).

Okay, I think being gay is wrong and not God's intent for sex. I also find it irrational and stupid to say that people are "born gay." You can obviously CHOOSE to be gay or not. However, I do not hate gays. I hate homosexuality but NOT the homosexual.

Now back to the original topic of the thread... If the KKK wants to be part of the Adopt-a-Highway program, so be it, this is America. And if they don't feel like cleaning up the road, so be it, it only hurts them.

Quote:

Subjective morality has nothing to do with it. There's nothing you can do about what others feel.

Lets just push morality to the side for a moment.

It may be ok in the eyes of individuals to hate certain people. Doesn't matter if some people are the world's biggest racists. But if they go out and kill those people like the KKK have done in the past, then thats certainly not OK.

It is OK to hate gays if you keep it to yourself, but if you openly say you hate them, or if you kill them, harass them or discrimitate them, then thats immoral and that is not OK.

As for being gay...If you are gay its because you are BORN that way or you grow up that way (and i don't mean social interference). They can't avoid it, so it's not their fault. It's not wrong. It is pretty illogical to say otherwise. And NO i do not read the bible, and if the bible says that "it was not god's intent" for people to be that way, well it was not "god's intent" for people to have 6 toes, or hair covering their face, or to have no hands and legs, be 2-foot tall... but guess what. It happens.
Quote:You can obviously CHOOSE to be gay or not.

Can you? I don't remember that part when I was due to arrive. :rolleyes:

And let the KKK adopt a highway. They are not hurting anyone.

I think there is a slight misunderstanding on what is "wrong" and what is "gay". MrPirate said it, I believe, that the act of sex should be only between a man and a woman, and that is true for the reasons he stated. Now, you can be gay, and not have sex. It's entirely possible -- but that is in no way wrong. The Catholic religion (at least) accepts gay people, however frowns upon the act of sex in a gay relationship. That is viewed as "wrong" as far as the Church goes. Of course, you can be a hypocrite and say that you think all gay people (and no, you don't have to be intimate with the same sex to be gay) are morally "wrong", but as Aircraftkiller said, you can't tell people what to feel.

Thats the most stupidly ignorant thing I've heard in a long while on this forum. You base your morality on a book you haven't read? So how do you know what the morality is? I mean for all you know there are pages in the bible forbidding the use of strawberries on a wednesday. If you want to live your life by it, fine. Just try and know what your living your life by.

Good point, it pays to remember it wasn't written in English. For example the commandment 'Thou shall not kill' was miss translated from 'Thou shall not Murder'. Which raises all sorts of moral questions about euthanasia, abortion, etc.

Or the miss translation of the Word 'Virgin', which was 'originaly Young' woman. Translation is difficult, and subtle mistakes can have a big impact.

It is a conscious choice to choose whether or not you want to be gay. I could walk up to a gay man and ask him to fuck me in the ass if I really wanted to do so.

All that keeps me from doing it is that I don't want to be fucked in the ass by anyone, especially not a gay man.

SomeRhinoNobody is born a homosexual; that is a myth. Over 80% of homosexual males have a father that was abusive, negligent, or left their family. There are also countless examples of straights turning homosexual and homosexuals turning straight during their lifetime.

And by what authority do you call someone wrong for saying homosexuality is wrong?

Moral relativism is full of loopholes that cannot be resolved.

It may not be an innate characteristic, but there has to be something that happens early in life or perhaps more likely in early childhood to influence this aspect of one's personality... Sure, one can make a choice to engage in homosexual acts, but how much can one help his or her attraction to someone? How can you decide who you like; what you like?

AircraftkillerIt is a conscious choice to choose whether or not you want to be gay. I could walk up to a gay man and ask him to fuck me in the ass if I really wanted to do so.

All that keeps me from doing it is that I don't want to be fucked in the ass by anyone, especially not a gay man.

You could do that all you want, but you'd never be gay. (I shudder at the thought) Gender is not a 2 option thing. Its a scale.
Man - woman and anywhere in between middle, or near would be gay.

You ARE born like that. And it can even be corrected in some cases. But the homosexuality doesn't show untill you are older.

i'd like to see proof backing up that statement... it's not a true statistic.

as for the guy who said they find it hard to believe the kkk would care about the community... if you knew anything about the kkk you would know that they get involved very much in betterment of communities. even though many of us feel their ideas are whacked, they do involve themselves alot in clean up projects and community service. they just spread intolerance with them while they're doing it.

as for the bible, just to add my own 2 cents in, i don't believe in god or the reliability of the bible. it's a great book to read(yes, i've read it a few times) but in my opinion, it holds no more credibility than aesops fables does. but, i have no problem if others wish to believe in it.

as for gay being a choice or not... many of those who believe it is wrong do so based on religion. since the common religious belief(except hindu) states that man is the only creature with a soul and free choice, how would the argument that it is a choice hold up when you take in account animals in the wild who engage in homosexual behavior?

personally, i don't care one way or another about homosexuality.

on a side note, i do have a couple gay guys renting out one of my houses. i've never met them, but i'm hoping that they burn down the house with one of their scented candles so i can collect the insurance :twisted:

1. People are born gay, and even if by some people it happens due to their childhood, it's still not their fault and not wrong.
2. Homosexuality happens in nature. Animals can be gay too. Therefore it's natural and not wrong.
3. I find it quite arrogant that some people claim to know who god loves and who he doesn't love. Even more that they seem to know god's motives.
4. I can understand why someone would be pro-war. I understand why people support Bush. I understand why people support many right-wing points of view. But why people oppose homosexuality is completely beyond me. To me it's like opposing rain or saying grass should be blue and green grass is wrong. I fail to comprehend it.
5. With "homosexuality" I generally refer to people who feel sexually attracted to members of their own sex. Having sex with them is a logical consequence to me.

Citing animal homosexual acts as proof of it being natural is always going to be dodgy ground. Mainly due to the fact that then you have to take into account many more of the motivations involved, like instinct verses desire, and the sense of self. Sens of self being when a creature is capable of understanding a)the affect of it's actions on others, and b)Having the abuility to empathise emotionally with others.

The Benobo Chimp is said, like all chimps, which technically includes humans, is said to have a sense of self, and uses sex as a social tool, to cement relationships, and assert dominance. If there's a hell for chimps these guys are well on their way , they not only shag hetrosexually, but homosexually, inestually and infantaly. Does this mean that because it's seen in nature incest and pedeophilia are ok? I would have thought not.

What it does show however, is that sex is not just about sexual attraction, but also about asserting dominance, which is also attributed to the high rate of sexual attacks in prisons.

I'm not looking to support or denounce homosexuality, but I just find the argument that it's ok cos u see it in nature should be thought through a bit.

We're geneticaly closer to chimps than many other animals we quite happily put in the same catagory, the only reason we reffere to ourselves as homo sapiens, as opposed to pans (chimp) sappiens, is because the victorians didn't know about genetics, and had issues with Darwin and evolution.

OK or not, that it appears in nature at least shows that being gay is not a conscious choice, as animals (as far as we know) can't make conscious decisions.

But at best it's bisexual behaviour, as far as I am aware there has never been documented cases of any animal conciously or otherwise displaying purely homosexual behaviour in preference to hetrosexual behaviour. In fact, homosexual behaviour in animals is almost exclusivly used to assert dominance and not in any way used as a means of affection.

If people want to be gay, let em. Don't feel the urge to justify it. If people want to use God as an excuse to hate people they don't understand, let em. It's their choice. It's not their fault if their so stupid as to realise that that kind of attitude is what sends suicide bombers into inocent people. Being told that God says it's the right thing to do.

Imdgr8oneDoes anyone even realize that they don't choose to be gay, they're born with it. Some of you people are so anti-gay that you wonder why many gay people don't make it past high school. Id rather it if they didnt even make it to high school. If they are going to run around showing and preaching their homosexuality (which every gay I have ever met, and Ive met a lot around here, does) then they deserve to get mistreated for it. If they got it they can flaunt it. But, I also got my reasons for disliking them. So im going to flaunt that around too. If someone tells me I cant, tough luck for them, because im going to flaunt my fist all over their jawbone untill they realize the issue.

Thanks for being an ignorant fuck. But hey, maybe you're right; the world is DANGEROUSLY UNDERPOPULATED. There's no way that having some people be gay is nature's way of trying balance the fact that there are just way too fucking many people as it is. And hey, if you want to discriminate against people because they're gay, and punch anyone who disagrees with you, I can't wait until you get the shit kicked out of you.

Heh. Mr Pirate. Read my post, then read the year I put. Sound kind of like a joke, maybe a little sarcasm? Good nature laugh to try and lighten up the situation? Nah, your to in depth with your mindset that you couldnt pull your head out of your ass if you tried. Second, why swear, does it make your 12 year old mind(once again, feel the sarcasm?) feel like a real big tough guy? Third, words dont work. Learn it. Nothing worth fighting for ever gets settled with words. If you disagree with me, and want to make something out of it, then my italian temper is going to take its toll on you. Shit kicked out of me huh? Hmm, interesting. Id rather get the shit kicked out of me for something I believe in rather than just being a dumb protesting hippy who has no real idea of what the world is about. Get off your drugs.(That was not directly pointed at you, I dont no if you do drugs, but it was a generlized statement)

I have my opinions.You have yours. If they dont like that then you know what? They can just go ahead and blow me, oh no wait, they actually would want to do that..... :rolleyes: (once again Im getting the vibe of sarcasm)

Ill be honest, im not going to HATE you because your a homosexual. Im goign to HATE you if you go aroudnd and parade around saying you are one for the attention, for the drama, for the looks of people, and to cause discussions like these. If I were at work, and a homosexual came in, didnt flaunt it, but was just holding his/hers partners hand, I would not have a big problem with that. I might feel a little uncomfortable, crack a few jokes, hell I might even get a giggle or two out of it. But I would not hate them nor treat them differently, other then the fact that they might try to hit on me and get my phone number!

I'm no expert on the subject, and definately don't know firsthand, but I have had conversations with former homosexuals who were able to "outgrow" their attraction to other man and are now have wives. It's not my place to answer your question.

Quote:i'd like to see proof backing up that statement... it's not a true statistic.

I heard that in a lecture one time. I have the book the lecturer wrote, but haven't had time to go find the quote. Anyways, this guy has been talking to homosexuals for years and I think determined the statistic on his own. Since I haven't offered you any proof, then you can disregard that remark.

Quote:1. People are born gay, and even if by some people it happens due to their childhood, it's still not their fault and not wrong.

If their homosexuality is a result of their childhood, then it doesn't mean they are born homosexual.

Quote:2. Homosexuality happens in nature. Animals can be gay too. Therefor it's natural and not wrong.

Animals also rape, murder, and are often involved in cannibalism. I can justify all of this according to your logic.

Quote:3. I find it quite arrogant that some people claim to know who god loves and who he doesn't love. Even more that they seem to know god's motives.

I don't believe anyone said God doesn't love homosexuals, but that the act of homosexuality is a sin.

It is futile to argue ethics with people who base their ethics within their own opinions. Nothing will be accomplished.

Quoting religious texts is not a way to prove a point, since not everyone follows the same religion. What seems "right" to one person might be "wrong" to another, and vice versa. Get it? Who are you to judge someone based on your standards of what they should or should not be doing?

Here's my take on it: Don't try to force your beliefs on someone else- THAT is what is truly wrong. So long as they don't try to make you do things their way, why should you go out of your way to disrupt their happy lives?

mrpirateThey want to; they're sexually oriented to like men.
Yea, and that's really fucked up.

Look, unless you're just a complete retard then you actually choose whether you have sex with a guy or a girl. It's no different than choosing to having sex or not to have sex. I don't have a degree in biology so I can't say whether you are more unclined to have sex with a man or a woman. But the fact is you CHOOSE to have sex, whether it be with a man or a woman. The act of having sex is not what makes one gay. Being attracted to the same sex is. Look, I will explain this once and not again. If sexuality is, as you say, a choice, then you have the option of having sex with either men or women. You, being straight, want to have sex with women, obviously. You can't understand why a man would want to have sex with another man. OK, fair enough. So then you're assuming that everyone is like you, but some guys just want to do something disgusting and have sex with other guys? But that makes no sense. If everyone felt the way you do, there would be no gays. So, obviously, there is something deeper here. Gay people must be *gasp* ATTRACTED TO THE SAME SEX. This is not something that is chosen consciously, since one can't just say "I'm straight/gay now!" See? Someone like yourself would never just say, "I'm going to go have dirty sex with a bunch of guys." Gay people are different.

You're basing your whole argument on faith. Do you know what faith is? Faith is the acknowledgment and unequivocal acceptance of unproven facts. If they are proven facts, then it is not faith, and you don't have a religion, only a science. Since you can't argue unproven truths, you can't say that being gay is wrong -- at least and expect to look like anything more than a blind follower.

how the fuck can you be so ignorant as to say something is wrong based on religion when not everyone follows the same religion as you? YOU see it as wrong, THEY don't. Since THEY are the ones that it actually MATTERS for, your opinion in the matter HAS NO RELEVANCE WHATSOEVER.

YOU believe that being gay is wrong, and will result in damnation. Go ahead and keep believing that. But don't try to ram that belief down the throats of people who obviously have a very different set of beliefs. And DEFINITELY don't take it into politics...then it becomes more than just pathetic and hypocritical, it becomes oppressive and wrong.

Who someone loves and/or fucks is their own business, not yours. [/b]

Besides, I really don't see the need to reproduce with more than 6 billion people on this planet already and some 8 billion in 2025 IIRC. Evolution has a way of weeding out the defects in a species. Gays are simply a defect in our species that will eventually be weeded out through natural selection.

JavafxThere is a very big difference between proving that  $1+1=2$  and proving "THESE morals are the correct morals". Very true, but are there not some morals that serve no purpose in today's society or are just flat out wrong? An Islamic terrorist has morals. He thinks it's moral to detonate a bomb on innocent civilians in a crowded marketplace. Are you going to sit there and defend him because his morals are not necessarily bad because they are HIS morals? Of course not, because killing people is wrong. So there are obviously some morals that are correct and others that are completely ridiculous.

Being gay is morally wrong to a lot of people, but most people wouldn't even care if someone is gay as long as they don't have to go around advertising it to the world, because quite frankly, no one cares.

What you do with your dick is entirely up to you. Don't go telling the whole world you like dicks in your ass. We don't give a shit and we're tired of hearing it. Take your "Gay and Lesbian Pride Parade" and "Gay Pride Month" and shove it.

Morality is a touchy issue. It's subjective, yet it's not at the same time. Some believe that morals are established through religion, and others just do what they believe to be right. The government works on both grounds, because the government is a democracy () full of people of different moral backgrounds.

Personally, I believe it is wrong to kill. My religion states that it is, and so do humanists. But when it comes to issues such as homosexuality, religion says it's wrong, and humanism says it's tolerable.

So we're at an impasse.

i think the KKK is gay

i dont give a shit wether someone is white or black or whatever we are all human beings although some people seem to be beasts rather than human like some members of the KKK are. Its sick.

Gay people, its not my kind of thing but it doesnt bother me, everyone is different with differnt tastes, religous and thoughts. I know quite a few 'gay' people myself and they are just people like you and me are, only their sexual attraction is to people of the same sex :/ Its about respect to other people i think, without that, life would really suck and it does anyway lol

This is exactly how nazi germany started.

And ahhh who the fuck cares if someone is gay or not, you dont have the right to tell someone not to be gay. They can be gay if they want to be gay and you can be straight if you want to be straight. Mind your own business, I mean what did a gay person ever do to you?

So shove that anti-gay shit up your ass Ack and everyone else who is against gay people.

And you DO have the right to tell someone not to be gay, just as that person has the right to cover his ears and drown you out.

AircraftkillerFacts don't change, right? You're having faith in human ignorance and delusions.

Personally, I'll take God over the self-serving crap you "god doesnt exist, because i somehow no it!" people feed everyone.

God is a human delusion. Just read the history books and you know why.

Everything in the bible is a nice fantasy.

Well, thats not exactly true. You can't prove God is a delusion. In fact, I dare you to prove He is a delusion. The Bible was written by many different authours over a course of a long period of time. It's highly unlikely the whole book is ficticious. But even if it is; the morals in the Bible are still good morals to live by.

I don't mean that I agree with all the morals in the Bible -- I even find some of the context to be questionable. Ezekiel's story, for example.

Some are based on true stories like "the big flood".

So they are adapted. All religion is based on the will for power.

Isn't it more easy to say to people "god has chosen me to rule over you all. My will is the will of god". Then "I am the king, obey me"

That's not Christianity at all. There is no single human who says "I am the messenger of the will of God, therefore obey me." is telling the truth.

TRUE Christianity would never allow a mere human being to be the messenger of the will of God because every human is fallable. Jesus was human, however, he was without sin (including the original sin) and therefore he and ONLY he is able to say "This is the will of God".

While that doesn't prove that God exists, it does prove that God is not a delusion. While stories such as the great flood actually DID happen, it's VERY liekly that God didn't tell Noah to build an arc before he smites the people in (where was it...) Turkey?

And have you never heard of "Karel the Great".

kriegervWhy there is a pope then?

Contrary to what some say, the Pope does not have divine authority. Jesus Christ is the head of the church, not the Pope.

EDIT: Let's stop this thread before it gets any worse.

The pope makes decisions about the Religion only. He does not "rule" over us. If your a person that blindly follows people without reason, then yes he could, if he so chose, to "rule" over you. However most people aren't that stupid, and the pope would probably cause a rebellion if something like that were to ever happen.

kriegervWhy there is a pope then?
And have you never heard of "Karel the Great".

To answer the first:

The Pope is a Catholic religious figurehead. Catholicism is not Christianity. There are severe differences between the two. One as such, is the sacrament of reconcillation (or confession). Confession is administered by a priest in a closed setting where the individual cites off sins he or she has committed in hoped of being forgiven. This is a blasphemy in Christianity. Only the blood of Christ can redeem someone from sin (according to Christianity), not a mere human who preaches the word of God.

To answer the second: No. I haven't.

Battousaigay is wrong. Put all the gays on an island and in about 100 years there'll be no more gays.

Fuck you.

And to most everyone else in this thread, fuck you to.

I'm bisexual, and I didn't choose it, so shut your god damned mouths right now. You can't say that people like me choose it because I certainly don't remember getting a fucking say in what type of person I'm attracted to. Now if any of you were gay/bisexual, than you could have a say in this thread, but since none of you know what is like, fuck off.

I know very little about Nietzsche, but Warranto is versed in it. Just so you know, I'm personally by religion -- Anglican. However, I'm also an agnostic theist.

Nietzsche???

Nietzsche???

If you believe ANYTHING he said in ANY form of seriousness, I pity you.

Ah yes, to be a superior human, you must be immoral. :rolleyes:

I bet you killed your mother, and her little dog too.

Did you know that it's rumored that HITLER got his idea's from reading Nietzsche?

Show me ONE thing that Nietzsche wrote that is of any true relivance to reality. Of course the fact that he ended up going mad a few years after writing his stuff had nothing to do with his views....

I do! I remember being confused about sexuality for a while and saw a few men as attractive - did I go out and assram them? Hell no...

You can say "well, you don't know what it's like to " but that doesn't change that people will think differently than you do. Of course, if you came into this thread expecting to see nothing but "OPEN YOUR ARMS TO ASSRAMMING!" then there's a problem - people are different. If you want to preach tolerance, then start showing it in everything you do, or don't bother saying it.

Yes, tolerating intolerance is part of tolerance, whether or not anyone agrees with it.

Remember that Newton law of physics? Every action has an equal, yet opposite, reaction?

You open your mouth and blab about something the majority of the world dislikes, expect to have SOME sort of retaliation in return.

Would you be screaming "OMG TOLERANCE" if people here admitted to necrophilia and decided that everyone should accept it? There's nothing harmful about fucking corpses, after all! :rolleyes:
