Nothing's been said, but I can guarantee that there'll be another one. C&C is a well-known name, and EA is a greedy corporation.

Now, whether it'll be a good game or a crappy one that gets shoved down our throats is something I couldn't tell you.

Command & Conquer is now just EA's brand name for RTS games.

Don't expect a Tiberian future.

Like I said there will be no "official" maps released by EA.

And why did you say "but..." ?? There are plenty of servers that run un-official (fan made) maps. Look harder.

Speaking as kindly as I can, Generals is a lame excuse for a soggy pile of flaming dog shit that EA is trying to pass off as a C&C game, so that they can distract C&C fans from their brainless lack of a conclusion to the series' original plot line. I'd rather they just let C&C retire in peace instead of ruining it with that mindless moose piss called Generals.

That said, the next game, if there is one, had better be Tiberian, and it had better not be as much of a damned pushover to beat as RA2 and YR were. As in, MORE than 12 pathetic levels, and a hard setting that is more challenging than flipping a light switch.

It won't be Westwood, so it will already be an uphill battle for their marketing team as far as my wallet is concerned.

i really hope new tiberian (if it ever comes) doesnt suck... but I mean I really think its going to suck though. EA is all about the cookie-cutter mass appeal games. Its too bad the industry has figured out the same thing movie producers have: you can just find an interesting topic (like comics for the movies, or WW2/War Tactical games for the computer) and just crank them out, sequel after sequel. Theres no risk involved, and the envelope for new ideas never gets pushed very far. I guess everyone's first concern is money, and thats why things are the way they are. Thank God for companies like Rockstar games.

If they make another Cnc game, I think our best bet would be for someone to get a warez copy, tell us all about it, then buy it if it is good, or not buy it if it is crap. That saves us all money as well.

Next C&C Game in my opinion: Renegade Alert

I don't concider Generals a C&C Game. The bastard child Red Alert 2 has more ties to C&C than Generals does.

the reason EA makes the level so hard it that people get bored of them.

Here's the logic

If we make the levels challemgng, people will spend lots of their time playing them instead of goining out and buying othere [EA] games....

Lets make the levels piss-easy

How long did it take you to finish the "mind control the president"mission of RA2. My record is just under one minute thirty

Well instead of a new game we could expand Generals (again)

j/k

Well whatever it is I hope the AI is atleast halfway decent. Whether it be Tiberian Sun or Renegade no AI can give nearly the satisfaction of beating the pants off of another human player.

Any future C&C game made by EA is going to suck. Generals was fun, but it was buggy, and it was not a C&C. Zero Hour was a peice of SHIT holy shit man I can't beleive what they did to the community. Its funny to see that more people are online on renegade than Zero hour. ZH licks nuts, and so does EA

Yeah, I mean there is just so much creativity in the original Westwood team that made CNC/RA1, it would be hard for any game to ever surpass those accomplishments. I'm still dissapointed about Tiberian Sun, it was the beginning of the end, the make or break game that ruined WW. The first 2 CNC's were so good that almost all the life left in the series is still coming from those games. I still think CNC1 was the best video game ever made, and there is nothing that comes close to rivaling it in my mind. Balance was not a real big thing back then so the actualy play is a little broken, but the graphics, creativity, sound, music, videos, storyline, and overall fun factor cannot be matched. I am still surprised to find out how many people have played the original Command and Conquer.[/u][i][b]

Same here. I'd really like EA to follow through on Tiberian Twilight but would only buy it if it was nothing like Generals. Meaning, I want the old tool bar, none of this dodgy Blizzard shit.

yeah I dont think they'd get rid of the toolbar, they should find a way to improve on it though, cause Blizzard's method makes more sense, so the Tiberian one has to have more functionality.

some other entirely irrelevant game and smash the C&C label on it. Why couldn't the whole WW deal happen after Ren2? Now I'm hooked on things like Halo and getting back to Renegade is really hard. (this is my first post in like 3 months - I've played Ren maybe once since then)
