Nah, the bodies are pretty cool.

You can shoot them when there dead and the will move from the force of the bullet hitting them.

The best thing is shooting the rope the shark hangs from and then pushing it around the map. The physics in the engine are average, not as good as Max Payne 2 - but the way objects float and others sink is impressive.

I like the bodies floating in the water, then seeing the blood in the water. That caught my eye, and why I like it a lot! Plus a dead body rolling down a cliff makes for fun target practicing!
