Do you mean "it already will block those cheat," or at the current version it does? Because there has already been at least one final ren user kick-banned from n00bsvr01 today, while rengaurd 1.32 was running :/

It does block this by default. n00bsvr01 is running brenbot 1.32, which is includes the RenGuard SSC.

But RenGuard only works if everyone is using the client application, and it's not being enforced at the moment.

if I recall, weren't you guys trying to figure out a way to make it auto dl when you try and join the server?

I think the auto download feature was for maps not the RenGuard client itself.

You need to download the client yourself. Once you have it installed and running, it will update itself automatically when you join the network.

There is an auto map download feature, but that's not for the first release.

Then....the won't be able to join servers running Renguard. At least that's how I think it works.

Right, that's why we are spreading awareness of RenGuard as far as we can... because you have to know about it so you can download it and install it when we release.

Will it be like this:
If you don't have renguard, you can join the server, but the server tells you that you need rengaurd to contiune playing. You can play for 1 min then the server !qkick's you.

Basically this way people will know why they are being kicked, its because they need rengaurd.

I think the other way a lot of people will be confused on wtf is going on and won't know what they need.

CrimsonNot a minute... a cheater can do a LOT of damage in a minute.

A lot of people won't download it if they don't know wtf they are supposed to have... esp noobs on wol. You need a warning system to let them know thy need to download rengaurd. Maybe at least 30 secs. If the idiot keeps rejoining then a simple ban would fix him/her.

Wow, you're brilliant, you know that? I just assumed the entire world knew what RenGuard was already and we didn't have to do that. :rolleyes:

The message scrolls off the screen within 3 seconds, so I'm just wondering why we should give them 60 or even 30 seconds to realize a message that isn't even there after 3.

I should have reported this new cheat earlier, but I was busy.

I got sent it by renegadecheatmaker@hotmail.com

Anyway, it checks if the dot in the middle of your reticle is red and if it is, it emulates a "fire", so it is very hard to detect.

I deleted it from my computer, and from his (see link), so it may not actually be in circlation.

I think you should make the RenGuard's important files be updated on every startup so that they cannot be modified.

These have been known of for well over a year, sorry but it's not new.
They're referred to as "colour click-bots", rather than aimbots.
