I just wanted to see what you think of this texture I just made. I've been messing with Corel Draw for some time and have got use to it so I decided to try and make a texture. I've started with something easy, a snow texture and just want to know what you think of it?

Do you think it looks real? Needs some improvement or is just okay for a game texture?

I know it almost looks just white, but there is something there.

SeaManHmm... to say.. it looks a bit plain.

but if he added a dirt mark or something to it, it would look too tiled and st00pid

You need to vary it somehow a little more or it will just only be good for highlights on a mountain top or something.
