Hello, I recently started a site Called United Federation of Clan Matches (UFCM). The site is found at http://www.clanuc.org/clanmatch . Currently, we are a very new site looking for moderators and also clans to post. Moderator status will be given only to those who are in clans and helps the site grow. Any and all Clans are welcome to post in these forums and also to request a clan match with any other clan.

Thanks for the time,
zerk

Checked out your forums and . . . LOL that is the same PHPbb theme I use for my forums, or were using, trying to get my forums back up, but having some problems. Well I think the Solaris theme is excelent, and I see you have already changed the logo on the top left, but the Register button was always hard to see to me and other peopl, I reccomend editing the register button to make it more visible.

That is a pesky color isnt it.

I didn't plan on using solaris but I took this site over and it was already set there. So I picked a name that somewhat resembled that since i was lazy to change the style
