For me it's UT 2004.

The only Battle Field I've played was the 1942, and that was shit. This one is probably just another shitty EA sequal. :rockedover:

BF:V would be ten times better if EA would have delivered everything they orignaly offered.

1. The Viet-Con Engineers have shovels but look they don't work... This is becuae EA said we would be able to dig entrances to tunnel systems. OMFG REBORN OFFERS THIS.

2.OMFG I TURNED UP THE TEXTURE LEVEL AND OMFG MISSING TEXTURES WOOHOOO!!! (given my copy is warez but there are numerous reports of this on people that have the supported ATI card in there computers that own the game. if you didn't know like UT2004 has support of nVidia cards this has supports for ATI cards.)

3. Here is a good one right here.... The jets (yes they are jets) handle like hot air baloons forget about dogfights. This being the last war where dogfighting still happened.

4. The boats are slow as molasses in January (you Canadians know how slow that is) The landing craft in BF42 were faster. Sad shit...

5. Wow I took off the airstrip and went off the battlefield... OMFG I am dead...

6. OOOO... another GFX problem FPS drop like a rock again on the supported cards... My cousin had to get a new GFX card because he had a ATI 7000 which is a 64mb card it is supposedly too slow, and I quote that from an EA rep from support... So his parents have to drop 100 bucks for a 49.99 piece of shit...

in the end BF:V will be awesome when they patch it and add the tunnels.

(this is the longest post I have ever made make it worth it and YEAH FOR COMCAST AND THIS SLOW CONNECTION I HAVE RIGHT NOW... I called them three times and they keep saying that it is a problem with my computer yet all the computer at my house and my neighbors are having connection problems...)

I played both and opted with BF:V! I mean dont get me wrong, but Unreal is to fast paced for me. Its fun for a month or so, but all the jumping and crap gets to me real quick!

Anyways, imagine how sick the Desert Combat for BF:V will be?!

DarkDemin1. The Viet-Con Engineers have shovels but look they don't work... This is becuae EA said we would be able to dig entrances to tunnel systems. OMFG REBORN OFFERS THIS.

It only happens in Linux Dedicated Servers. The engie shovel works fine in Windows version.

I personally don't like UT gameplay...It's too fast paced, like someone said and it was designed for frenetic fragfests, just like its predecessors and other Quake-like games. BF (both) brings the Renegade feeling for me, so I go with it. Look, I'm not comparing engines here, but the gameplay. However, I have to agree that UT2004 brought some very interesting goodies like the TV and built-in voice systems, lots of maps and game modes. Well, BFV is an EA game, so we are used to get a half finished game.

Renegade u dont half to wait for vehicles to spawn and yur not absolutely fucked when attacking a vehicle, and u can shoot from a vehicle in 3rd person.

Anyways, I think once they patch this game a few times and add a few things this will be sick! I mean the knives suck big time, I was extremely dissapointed in that. As for the shovel, just look closely youll find them in the maps. The m14 is just a sick weapon, I get more headshots with that then using the sniper rifles, patience = lots'o'headshots!

PS: Anyone dissapointed on how you cant melt the Vietcong with your torch as an engee? That wouldve been sick, but oh well, im sure theyll possibly patch that.

I wouldn't go for BFV, simply because there's a 100% free download mod, called Eve of Destruction, for BF:1942. That mod, only being at version 0.2, already has more in it than the new game does. There aren't any glaring bugs or balance issues, either. And EA would want me to pay...what, $30-$50 for less of a product than what is made by a non-profit mod team? No thank you...

UT2k4 how much better would the bots have to be than in BF. The bots in UT are murderous now. No running in a straight line always dodging, wall-hopping, camping on spawn points (that last one pisses me off fucking bots) but they are so much smater than any bot I have come across. Granted I do not have BF:V but Epic's support for their games is second to none.

I got UT2004, as for the speed thats relative to the server most put the speed at 120%, it can be turned down. Onslaught and Assault mode are VERY team oriented. Not to mention the game comes with about 100 maps to play on. Many are turning out OS maps already. I dont like deathmatch that much, and I hate capture the flag, but assault and onslaught more than make up for that. DOM maps are fun as well.

To even play BFVM I'm going to have to get another 512 of ram and a better video card if i want good smooth play. With UT it requires less.
Although BF does have a higher player count.

I have tons of fun with the game and play it whenever I get free time after work and between my personal life. Not much playing time, but I'll take that 30 minutes to an hour playing this game then sleeping!

PS: Has anyone tried the wirecutters online? Oh so fun, nothing like jacking up a few Cobras and Huey's then watching a crap load of peeps run it in, then BOOM as soon as they get two feet off the ground! MWAHAHAHa ut2004 easy, the game looks great and the onslaught mode is simply awesome. I would recomend the onslaught mode for any clan to add as a game, the maps are well thought out and the pace isnt really that fast, basically the perfect "replacement" for renegade. The vehicles are great especially the manta and leviathan (takes 5 people to pilot it) buy it now!!!

we got a UT2004 server up on gamespy, feel free to pop in for a few frags DFC@Teampplay. server located in europe, i ping 20ms to it the only downside is the load times (about 2 minutes on my pc) and the 5.4gb install

Your friend is quite an idiot then. I doubt Epic would tolerate 2 people playing on the same key, they'll probably ban both.
