hi all, i recently bought renegade off ebay, im running it on XP home with 56k modem if any of that helps.

my prob is that i want to create on WOL but when i click new account i get the message "page failed to load or is invalid".

any help? i can give more info +specs and stuff if you need but i can't see how my specs could make the page fail to load.

thanks in advance

-DJM

I checked in the Renegade folder and clicked the register icon in there and it does indeed say that the renegade registration something or other servers are down for maintenance, does anybody have a clue as to when they'll be up again?

I'm getting really bored of doing the multiplayer practice, you cant change ANY options OR choose a map, how crap is that? are there any utilities that can change the map etc.?

He has to have an existing login for renegade which has not 4 logins (maximum) registered already.

Obviously he just bought the game so this means he has no got a login for WOL and thus the link is useless for him.

The "Ren_Live_Register" page or something is offline for over 2 weeks now fucking EA hasnt fixed it yet assholes fuck.. (excuse me)

well, i suppose ill just have to wait until EA decides to fix it (after a few nights on the town).

ha, i was just reading the renegade manual and spotted something funny:

"Westwood is committed to keeping our games alive and growing. To that extent, we will be surprises we have in store, you can keep tabs on all things Renegade at the Renegade website."

this is EA's statement:

"EA is committed to grabbing all of your money and ruining good games, our already lined pockets are awaiting your pitiful cash. We promise to ruin every good game we take on and make members of the public do our technical support for us. We will not be fixing broken games, however we will be bringing out newer games full of holes for you to get really p****d off at.....just for our amusement. (etc..)" i'm probably so biased after playing generals for too long. its immensely irritating trying to get support from a brick wall for that game.

anyway, thanks eveyone for trying but my impatient self will have to wait a few months *cough cough* "weeks" for EA to fix the thing.

Then Registration IS down, the CD Key won't be blocked... I have the same problem but luckily for me I already have sveral accounts.

IF however you go to the Gamespy section, you will be able to play on there.... No problems there atm for registration etc...

Yeah, i managed to get an account on gamespy but i didnt know you could get one for free, i mean "join now for free" is hardly plastered over the gamespy website, i had to wiggle my way round and finally found a way to register for free.

Anyway i have been having a few probs on gamespy, now i dont know is it is lag/ping, renguard, renegade, a hack or gamespy itself but my controls have been going mental, i press D (right) for instance and my character moves but as soon as i stop he/she goes back to where he/she was then i have to move again, when i try to move straight about 10 secs earlier i pressed right to go round an object yet it decides to repeat that right turn. any help/reson as to why this is? im confused, my main suspect is lag though. (lag grrr, dont you just hate it with a vengeance :twisted: )
