Make sure port 6300 is open on your firewall.

Um, either your always.dbs is corrupt, or you have a modified renegade installation. Try reinstalling renegade - and get that file fixed. If it stops saying that, you're okay. Or just try to reconnect.

Yeah, I had that happen, I just reset RenGuard a few times and that fixed it. Also, my always.dbs file got corrupt, something with my firewall and Renegade + RenGuard made my computer freeze several times, I think I figured out a way around the problem. *turns firewall on allow all* There, all better, if there's another way around it, I'd be grateful to know I'm using McAfee 7.1 Pro with McAfee Guardian, it only froze when the firewall was filtering all traffic and I went to enter a server.

It will also stall when you try to log on WHILE Renguard is being updated. It won't be often that this happens, as the updates are done fairly fast, but I had this experience myself as well.

It's not a new problem, your game isn't destructed, I believe people have already given an answer to that problem, check other places in this forum, I'm sure you'll find the answer to your problem somewhere.

Also, can someone please answer my question I asked involving my firewall problems yesterday that warranto posted after and it never really got answered? :rolleyes:

Hi. On the day I got this, it worked first time. but when my bro tried it for a second time, he click on renegade and it said, "Renguard is loaded. Unload it and try again." But how do I do this?

And how do you get rid of Renguard anyway?

Renguard runs in your system tray here:

If Renguard is closed, just click on the R to start it up again.
