everyone pretty much its hella unstable and the gsa support sucks compared to the wol. Besides server owners don't want to give cramson all that power.

Although the effort but in by the developers is much apperciated, the whole centrialized network idea is quite a feat, and should be converted to strict server to cleint authentication instead of RG netwrok authentication. If you want to authenticate, it should be done at a RG protected server to RG netwrok basis not client directly to RG network as it is now.

I got emaisl from about 70 people complaining about how renguard is kicking them even though they have it installed... It may stablize, it may not, but any sane server owner would be stupid to install it because it gives RG team control over your server.

Alkaline's probably looking out for his cheating chums after all - he doesn't want them to get banned from his servers.

Alkaline is so full of shit, I don't know what else he could be....
