You will need to delete some items in order to install Renguard. Even if you don't install Renguard I would recommend clearing up some space, simply to make your computer run better.

Or just get another Hard Drive.

Probably delete some old things that you don't use too much, I know that in the add/remove programs thing it will say how often the program is used.

RenGuard is only a couple megs... if you don't have that much disk space, you have bigger problems... like a slow-ass PC with no swap space.
