Who cares? It's hilarious, and fitting to boot.

Look, you've got a motley crew of panderers, thieves, and liars over in BC.

Scrumfy uses people by pretending to be their friend, until they serve no use to him anymore. Then he goes "well I always hated you and I just wanted <insert item>" after he has what he wants.

Vloktboky, while a good person, seems to be under that same influence. Seeing as how he tried stealing the code for the Renegade-sends-IRC-kills (such as Aircraftkiller got Owned by the Obelisk of Light, or n00b214 killed n00b3912 with a Ramjet Rifle)-with-weapons-stated code that Blazer's been working on for the past five months, if not longer. He tried getting into Black Hand Studios in order to take that, and admitted to it.

That "louis" guy is an idiot. Anyone who can't even capitalize their own name, or alias, doesn't seem to hold much in the upstairs attic. Nevermind the fact that he can't make a coherent sentence if his life depended on it.

SS here likes to give out the hub IP address of the n00bstories IRC servers so it can be DDoS attacked.

Compared to all of that, "assrammers.org" is both hilarious and is honestly less sinister than the shit you BC people have pulled.

Excuse me? I have stolen nothing from any person in this community. I have made all of my work on my own. The code that I got to get the player name from scripts.dll was a fair trade made between myself and Mac. The method Blazer uses and the method I use are not the same. I use the code I got from Mac to send the player name and the object ID of each player to DS. Another message is sent when a player is killed. DS records the player name, and later recalls it when the kill message is sent to it. It does not involve packet sniffing, which is what Blazer's method uses.

Yes, I did want to work for Black Hand Studios at what point. I can say that I would never dream of working for that group now.

Thank you, Aircraftkiller, for publicly calling me a thief and a liar.

This community can bite my ass. I will never make another thing for it.

Excuse me, Aircraftkiller, but do you really think that it shows much of you to judge me just because I use an 'l' instead of an 'L'? If you are going to go around forming your opinions on people based on how they capitalize one letter, then you seriously have some issues. I don't understand where you get off saying that I cannot form a coherent sentence when we've spoken once or twice, and then the time where someone from your "community" was spying on our IRC network. Surely when you were watching what grn_beret was saying you were able to see that I am capable of speaking in coherent sentences, unless me not capitilizing and using punctuation makes what I say go from understandable to garbage.

Perhaps you can try reading what I wrote instead of going on with a knee-jerk reaction by reading only two words.

I said you ATTEMPTED it. I never said you stole anything. Only that you tried to do it.

Furthermore, why would you want to work for BHS, honestly, when all you've told me over the past month is "all I want to do is work for BC and make things server-side." That doesn't seem to hold much water.

Lets see, log of what was said...

Well, that isn't exactly you admitting it... I'm sure Blazer will show the rest seeing as how he has the complete log of it.

blackmail device or something to be afraid of?

Pretty much so, that's why English was formed. Not Moronese, unless that's your particular taste in language.

My beef with you runs a bit further than that. It's just easier to focus on superficial problems that everyone can see.
